FBI Enters Investigation

Probe Loaded Gun In Plane Wreckage

CONCORD, Calif. (AP) — A cocked and loaded pistol found in the trail of wreckage left by a Pacific Air Lines plane has brought the FBI into the investigation of Thursday's crash.

All 44 persons aboard the turbo-prop airliner were killed. A quarter-mile of metal fragments, a garbled tape recording, the gun and bits of the victims' bodies were all the evidence that Civil Aeronautics Board investigators had to work with.

The plane, a morning flight from Reno, Nev., went down after stopping in Stockton, Calif., just 40 miles east, San Francisco, its destination.

Seconds before the airliner plunged nose first to earth, a garbled message came over its radio but was lost in a screech of static and electronic squeals. The Federal Aviation Agency had a tape recording of it that investigators hoped would provide some clue.

The FBI took charge of a cocked and loaded .38-caliber revolver. At first it was believed to belong to a San Francisco police inspector, George Lacau, who with his wife, Betty, was a passenger on the plane.

A check in police records, however, showed that none of the three revolvers registered by Lacau had the serial numbers of the weapon found in the wreckage.

"Our captains are authorized to carry a gun," said a Pacific Air Lines spokesman. "But none has ever done so to our knowledge."

Sheriff Walter Young asked the FBI disaster squad to use their special fingerprint techniques to make positive identification of the dead. Coroner Dr. William Bogart refused to allow relatives to view the remains.

Japanese Envoy To US When War Began, Dead

TOKYO (AP)—Adm. Kichisaburo Nomura, Japan's ambassador to the United States when his country attacked Pearl Harbor, died today after a long illness. He was 86.

Nomura and special envoy Saburo Kurosu received one of the stiffest tongue-lashings in diplomatic annals when they arrived at the State Department on Dec. 7, 1941 bringing Japan's rejection of the latest U.S. peace formula. Bombs had just begun falling on the Pacific outpost.

Seething with anger, Secretary of State Cordell Hull kept Nomura and Kurosu waiting 15 minutes in an anteroom. They entered Hull's office smiling and bowing and handed him the Japanese note. He read it slowly, without betraying his fury, even at the sentence, "The immutable policy of Japan is to promote world peace."

Then Hull exploded, telling two shocked envoys:

"In all my 50 years of public service, I have never seen a document that was more crowded with infamous falsehoods and distortions — infamous falsehoods and distortions on a scale so huge that I never imagined until today that any government on this planet was capable of uttering them."

Nomura, who had been assigned to Washington nine months earlier, repeatedly denied any advance knowledge of the attack which brought the United States into World War II.

Jeep From Sky Puts Out Electric Power

FORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Suburban residents searched for almost an hour before they found the cause of an electricity failure Thursday.

When two employees of the city golf course located the trouble, no one believed them.

A jeep from an Air Force C130 cargo plane apparently fell out of the aircraft and parachuted onto a power line.

A spokesman from the Tactical Air Warfare Center at Eglin Air Force Base said the jeeps are normally secured in the plane.

Askew Named To Eagleton Campaign Job

Wilbur C. Askew, Route 2, Hughesville, former owner of the Askew Motor Co., has been requested by Attorney General Thomas F. Eagleton, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, to assume the chairmanship of his campaign in Pettis County.

Askew, already chairman of the Warren E. Hearnes, Democrat-for-Governor campaign, has accepted the responsibility. Secretary of State Hearnes appointed Askew to head up his campaign in Pettis County last January.

In discussing the handling of the two campaigns, Askew said, "I consider it a pleasure to take on the duties of handling the campaigns of these two fine young men. Along with myself there are many people who are deeply interested in the welfare of these two men, who we feel will make a great team at the head of Missouri's government."

"Both are young, well educated, well informed and possess the qualities of assuming the responsibilities of these two high offices of our state. With the assistance of Pettis Counties I am sure this county will be among many counties over the state that will give them a majority in the August primary election," Askew said.

Exchange Fire Through Night In Nicosia

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Greek and Turkish Cypriots exchanged fire through the night in the neighboring villages of Louroujina and Limbia, 15 miles south of Nicosia. One Turkish wounded.

A United Nations spokesman said a British patrol and an observer aircraft reached the villages, one Greek and the other Turkish, about 8 a.m., and the shooting stopped shortly after.

The U.N. patrol reported that about 20 Greek Cypriots who had dug in around the Turkish settlement of Louroujina drove away soon after they arrived.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., left Ankara, Turkey, for the Netherlands today after completing a three-day fact-finding mission on the Cyprus issue.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, met for two hours Thursday night with Premier Ismet Inonu to express U.S. concern over the crisis and to hear the Turkish side.

Wolfe Dies In Missouri Gas Chamber

Pickets Protest 'Legal Murder' Outside Prison

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Ronald Lee Wolfe, a homeless drifter since childhood, died in Missouri's gas chamber early today after spending nearly half his 33 years in custody.

Wolfe was executed for raping an 8-year-old girl near Troy, Mo., on Oct. 18, 1959, just three days after being released from the federal prison at Atlanta.

Lacking close relatives, he was buried in a pauper's grave in Jefferson City today.

Warden E. V. Nash said Wolfe lost track of his father when he was 6, lived with his grandparents until he was 9, then in foster homes.

Wolfe first was arrested for stealing a bicycle when he was 15, then was in juvenile institutions intermittently in New York until he went to prison in South Carolina in 1951 for burglary.

He entered the federal prison at Atlanta in 1956 for taking a stolen car across state lines.

Three days after his release he was in another stolen car when he lured the little girl away from a church picnic, attacked her and threw her out of the car.

Wolfe's attorneys described him as a borderline mental case. They carried appeals through state and federal courts. They got a reprieve when he was scheduled to die in November. Their last appeal for clemency was denied Wednesday.

Red China Denounces Moscow Plan

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China today denounced Moscow's proposal for an international conference of Communist parties this fall as part of a plot "to accelerate an open split in the international Communist movement."

A Peking broadcast said such a meeting is not likely within the next four or five years "or even longer."

Peking made the statement in rejecting a Soviet timetable calling for a preparatory Chinese-Soviet meeting this month, to be followed by an international conference of Communist parties in the fall to deal with the split between the two Red giants.

In a letter sent Thursday to the Soviet Communist party, the Chinese Communists suggested a year from now would be the most appropriate time for a meeting between their two parties.

Peking declared an international meeting of Communist parties required a series of preparatory steps to make it a success.

"Judging by present circumstances," said a New China News Agency broadcast monitored in Tokyo, "it might require perhaps four to five years, or even longer, to complete these preparations."

Massive Public Reception Given Johnson In Atlanta

Court Order Ends Wildcat Rail Walkout

Marshals Serve Injunction Against 25 Yard Pickets

CHICAGO (AP) — U. S. marshals served a court order early today ending the last of strikes against four railroads by firemen protesting the elimination of hundreds of firemen's jobs under an arbitration ruling.

The marshals served the temporary injunction against 25 pickets at the Joliet, Ill., switching yards of the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern Railway.

The order was issued in a special night session by U.S. District Judge Julius J. Hoffman in Chicago.

More than 800 railway workers had respected the picket lines set up by the 25 firemen Thursday after brief strikes against three other railroads had already ended.

Firemen struck at 12:01 a.m. Thursday, the hour of the start of the job elimination, against two Illinois switching lines, the Toledo, Peoria & Western Railroad and the Peoria & Pekin Union Railway. But about 10 hours later the walkout was called off by officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen after telephone calls from union chiefs in Washington. The strikes had idled about 950 workers.

Pickets appeared at the Pennsylvania Railroad's Conway, Pa., yards, the world's largest, at dawn, but they left shortly after noon.

Agriculture Funds Slashed By Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Agriculture Department appropriation of $5,182,665,000, reduced $1,059,632,215 from last year's level, was approved today by the House Appropriations Committee.

Sending the bill to the House, the committee directed the department to reshuffle some of its spending plans, continuing a number of research stations and programs that had been scheduled for elimination or reduction.

It told the department to balance the cost by cutting down on work for the Agency for International Development's programs.

The committee included $3 million for research on tobacco and insecticides, directing that it begin immediately.

Its report said the $8-billion tobacco industry is deeply affected by findings linking smoking with cancer and other diseases and it is vital "to determine the properties of tobacco which may affect the health of smokers and to develop means to eliminate any harmful substances found."

McCormick Draws Two Prison Terms

Twenty-year-old Gerald D. McCormick, Route 3, Sedalia, was sentenced in Circuit Court Thursday afternoon to prison terms of six years and two years respectively on charges of first degree robbery and escaping jail. The terms will run concurrently.

Circuit Judge Frank W. Hayes assessed the sentences against McCormick after the youth appeared in court and withdrew previous pleas of innocence and entered a guilty plea. McCormick was granted credit for 161 days previously spent in confinement. The 161-day period includes time in the Pettis County jail and while undergoing psychiatric examination recently at State Hospital No. 1 in Fulton.

McCormick robbed a 17-year-old attendant on Aug. 21, 1963, at the Surf Club, west of Sedalia, taking $11 in cash plus a large quantity of cigarettes and candy bars. He brandished a .22 cal. rifle in pulling the robbery.

The McCormick youth was captured, however, by Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax in less than an hour and a half and when arrested by Fairfax and Deputy Jack Coutts the youth was still in possession of the money, cigarettes and candy. The officers said he also admitted a previous burglary of the Natkin Engineering Company in Sedalia at the time of his apprehension.

McCormick was bound over to Circuit Court and while awaiting trial chipped a large hole in the north wall of the time.

Makes Forceful Appeal For Justice Among Races

ATLANTA (AP) — President Johnson got a massive public reception today in the streets of Atlanta after making a forceful appeal for "justice among the races."

Johnson's 8-mile motorcade through the largest city in the Deep South drew cheering crowds estimated by police at more than 500,000.

The President constantly stopped his car after leaving a closed car to ride in a convertible. He stood on the trunk and spoke to the crowds through a megaphone.

Streets were jammed with people. They crowded in about the President's car when he stopped to comment on a sign that said, "We're the school that gave $100 to the camel driver" — a reference to famous Johnson-inspired trip of a Pakistani camel driver.

"We love Atlanta and its people," he told the crowds.

In an earlier speech, Johnson urged rejection of extremists "who seek to stir old hostilities and kindle old hatreds."

Johnson's call for racial justice drew applause from a breakfast audience that included members of the Georgia Legislature.

In his prepared text, Johnson had suggested that much of the South would find racial peace "before the end of racial strife in the cities of the North."

Johnson dropped this sentence when he delivered his speech, but the White House said he stood behind the prepared statement.

In a speech prepared for a public square meeting at his next stop—Gainesville, Ga. — the President said he wanted a government of compassion.

He spoke from the same spot that President Franklin D. Roosevelt occupied 26 years ago in a visit to Gainesville after it was rebuilt from the ruin of a tornado.

"We need the spirit of Franklin Roosevelt," Johnson said.

"Today—with Franklin Roosevelt's son by my side—I have come to Gainesville to say that his work and ours is not finished," he said. He referred to Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr.

Diem Brother to Die Before Firing Squad

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Ngo Dinh Can, younger brother of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem and former viceroy of central Viet Nam, is to die before a firing squad in a Saigon prison Saturday.

Can, 53, who ruled the north-central capital of Hue and surrounding provinces with an iron hand until his brother was overthrown last November, was convicted last month of murder.

A military tribunal also convicted him of corruption, extortion and abusing his power in addition to ordering the torture death of three persons in 1956, 1957 and 1958.

Tighten Ring Of Security Around Nikita

Maximum Effort At Protection On Cairo Visit

CAIRO (AP)—Maximum security precautions are being quietly tightened for the arrival of Premier Khrushchev Saturday, and special communication equipment has been installed to give the Soviet leader instant contact with Moscow.

Troops, police and plainclothes agents from Egyptian army intelligence have been assigned to guard Khrushchev. Reports said as many as 200 Soviet security agents will accompany the premier.

Special telephone lines to Moscow were reported being set up from Cairo and Aswan, 430 miles to the south, to Moscow.

Khrushchev's route will take him from Alexandria, his port of landing, to Cairo, Port Said and other points.

As a further precaution two special planes have been sent from the Soviet Union to take Khrushchev around the United Arab Republic. Soviet sources said the premier would not fly aboard Egyptian planes—many of which were built by the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev's ship, the Armenia, will arrive for a festive welcome at Alexandria Saturday morning. With President Gamal Abdel Nasser, Khrushchev will immediately plunge into a busy schedule.

There will be a series of speeches and talks with Nasser, visits to factories, the pyramids and sphinx, and tours of the massive Soviet-financed Aswan High Dam project. But 13 afterwards have been kept free so Khrushchev can rest.

Next Thursday, after the dedication ceremonies at Aswan, Khrushchev and Nasser will spend a day fishing in the Red Sea from the official yacht Hourryia.

The Soviet leader's flight home is scheduled for May 25 but unofficial sources said there is a possibility he will stay one more day to rest.

Big Welcome For Truman At Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harry S. Truman got a thunderous welcome back to the Senate on his 80th birthday today and was so overcome with emotion he could not make a speech.

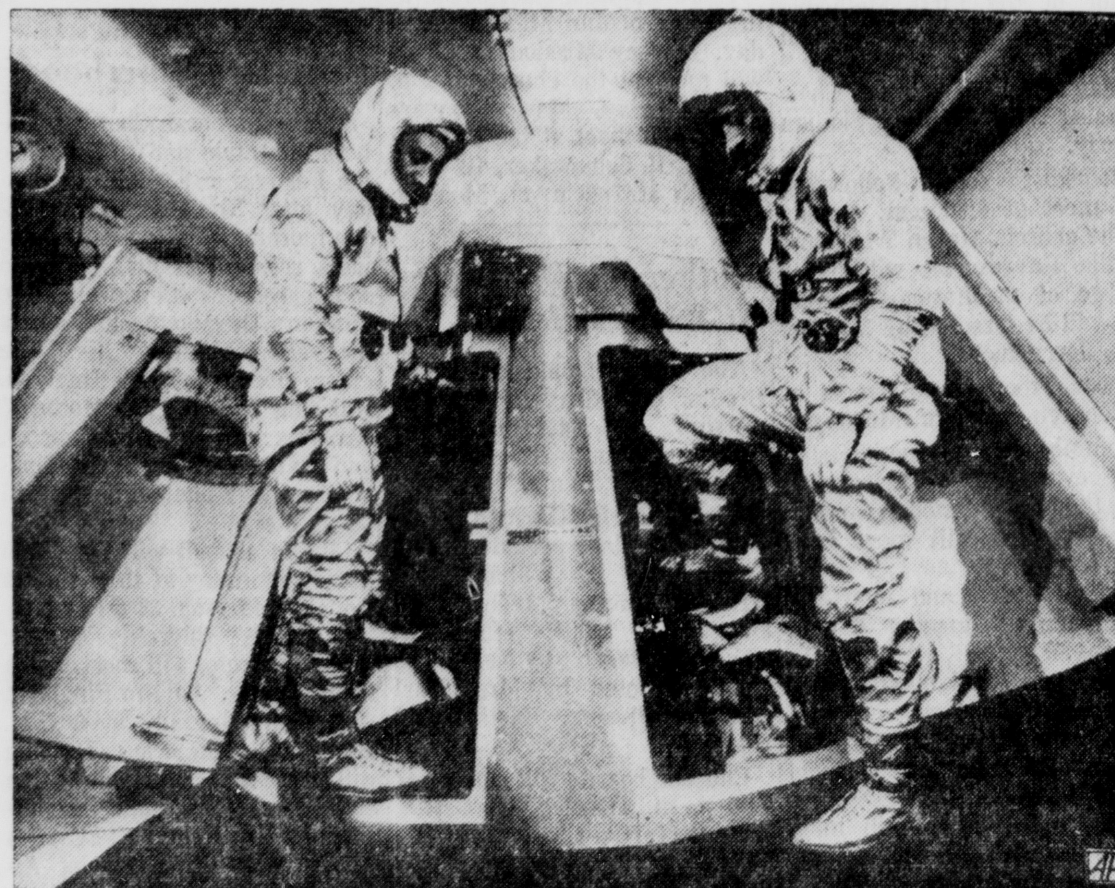

The former president helped make history, however, by the few remarks he did make. He became the first ex-president to address the Senate during an official session in the chamber, under a rules change adopted last year.

"I'm a little overcome," he said, his voice choking. "This is one of the greatest things that has happened to me in my whole life." But he said, because of his emotion, he couldn't take advantage of the opportunity to make a speech.

However, he said, the rule adopted last October, sponsored by Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., entitling ex-presidents to address the chamber on "grave national problems" is a "great one."

Moving at a pace that would tax the strength of men many years his junior, the former president started his day with an impromptu news conference in which he predicted President Johnson will do as well in November as President Franklin D. Roosevelt did in 1936.

Calvary Church To Hear Taiwan Mission Talk

The Rev. Patric L. Hutton, Vicar of St. Paul's Church in Kaohsiung, Taiwan will be the preacher at the 11 o'clock service in Calvary Episcopal Church this coming Sunday morning.

Father Hutton returned to this country from Taiwan with his wife and two children six weeks ago where they have spent the past three years. In this time Father Hutton has been responsible for the establishment of two infirmaries, and shortly before he left his congregation started the construction of a new church building. Some of the money for some of that work was provided by the 1963 Church School Missionary Offering collected throughout the Episcopal Church for work on the Rim of East Asia.

Father Hutton is a native of Missouri; he was born in Cassville and started college at Southwest Missouri State College, Springfield. He is a graduate of the University of Washington where he majored in the Chinese Language.

For a time Father Hutton was assistant curator of oriental art at the Nelson Art Gallery, Kansas City, following his graduation. Later he received the Bachelor of Divinity at Nashotah House, a seminary of the Episcopal Church. In 1955 Father Hutton became rector of Trinity Church, Independence, where he remained for six years until he left for Taiwan in 1961. From 1959 until 1961 he was chairman of the department of Christian education and youth in the Diocese of West Missouri.

Father Hutton will show slides of his work in Taiwan during the church school hour on Sunday morning in the basement of Hawkins Hall of Calvary Church. There will be coffee hour after the 11 o'clock service.

Doering To Discuss Debt To Motherhood

Trinity Lutheran Church members and friends will observe the Festival of Exaudi, the Sunday after The Ascension, Sunday morning. Pastor Paul Doering's sermon, "Our Debt to Motherhood," will develop the Mother's Day theme and stress the value of family life. The choir, directed by Bob Findland, will sing "Behold Thy Mother." Acolytes will be Bobby Hancock and Gary Kreisler. Irvin Binkholder and William Pahlow will be greeters.

Church council will meet 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the home of Donald Anderson, 2608 Plaza.

Lutheran Church Women, morning circle, will meet at the home of Mrs. William Findland, 2314 South Ingram at 9 a.m. Thursday. Mrs. Paul Doering will present the program, "One Step More," to explain the purpose and meaning of LCW. A report from LCW District Assembly held recently in Kansas City will be presented. Mrs. J. W. Donnell is morning circle chairman.

Choir will rehearse at the church at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Eight Day Revival Planned At Mission

Sunday marks the beginning of an eight-day revival at Broadway Baptist Mission. The Rev. George W. Poulos is the evangelist and Bill Watson is song leader. Mr. Poulos' morning sermon is entitled "The Christian Home," and mothers will be especially recognized.

Revival services will be conducted each evening at 7:30 p.m. May 10-17. A nursery will be provided at each service for children under three years of age.

An all-church fellowship will be held following the Friday evening service. The fellowship will be held in the old church building.

The final day of revival, May 17, a basket dinner will be held at the mission.

Assemblies of God Elect New Officers

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Officers were elected Wednesday at the spring convention of the West Central District Council of the Assemblies of God.

The Rev. Charles A. Parker, Columbia, Mo., was named assistant superintendent; The Rev. B. B. Compton, Des Moines, secretary-treasurer and The Rev. W. B. Friend, St. Joseph, Mo., and The Rev. J. O. Howard, Knoxville, Iowa, non-resident executive presbyters.

Honor Command Is Subject At Wesley

"The Commandment With a Promise" is the sermon subject which the Rev. George E. Sparling will use this Sunday at the Wesley Methodist Church. This will complete a series on Commandments. The subject was saved for Mother's Day and National Family Week. Chancel Choir, directed by Mrs. Carl Schrader, will sing for the first service; Youth Choir, directed by Mrs. Jack Gray, will provide special music for the second service.

Junior High Methodist Youth Fellowship, meeting at 6 p.m. Sunday, will begin a series of lessons on "My Life at Home" with Jill Ulmer and Nancy Gray as program leaders the first session. Senior High MYF meets at 6:30 p.m. Sunday and will continue a series on the National Convocation theme, "God Is Love." Officers will be elected.

Activities during the week include the meeting of Circle 6 of the Woman's Society of Christian Service at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday at the home of Mrs. K. P. McCrary, 105 East Sixth. Builders Class will meet at the church at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. Couples Class will meet at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday; Friendship Class at 2 p.m. Thursday.

Ann Landers Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 12-year-old girl who just found out why kids are so sassy to their mothers. The reason is because mothers are too bossy.

Why do mothers think they have to be on every little thing that happens? If mothers would leave their kids alone more it would be much better for their kids and much better for the mothers, too.

Dear Ann Landers: I found this unfinished letter to you on my daughter's dresser this morning. I would like to tell you my side of the story.

If I had more co-operation from this 12-year-old Know-It-All I would not be so irritable. My life is an endless round of picking up books, hats, coats, underwear, damp towels and whatever she decides to drop.

Children today treat their mothers as if they were hired help and then expect them to be cheerful and uncomplaining. Perhaps if my daughter were more considerate her mother would not be so "bossy." What is your verdict?—MY SIDE

Dear Your Side: Sorry, Mother, you are guilty as charged. The very act of taking over your daughter's letter as you did is evidence that you are indeed too bossy. (I'll bet you finish your husband's sentences, too.)

Children who are taught early to pick up after themselves will not be slob at age 12. But that's another column.

Try taking the whip off this girl's back. Allow her more independence of thought and action and I promise you she'll be more co-operative.

Dear Ann Landers: Several days ago I read the letter in your column from the young man who was undecided about marrying his fiancée. It seems she had a bad habit of throwing her engagement ring in his face every time they had an argument. My fiancée was the same type but I married her thinking she would outgrow those childish temper tantrums. I kept telling myself she'd settle down once she had the "Mrs." in front of her name.

Well, Ann, we've been married 15 years and she's still throwing things—bottles, dishes, knives, lamps, any object that happens to be in her hands when she flies off the handle.

Leaving her is out of the question. We have a large family and I'd hate to think of what would become of the kids if I walked out and left her in charge.

It's too late for me, but I hope the guy who wrote you will take your advice and get out while the getting is good. —BATTLE-SCARRED.

Dear Scarred: Yours was not the only letter which expressed such sentiments. For those of you who may have walked in late, I repeat: Take a good, clear-eyed look at your beloved during courtship—and remove those rose-colored glasses, kids. A fiery uncontrolled temper will not vanish after marriage. It will probably get worse.

Dear Ann Landers: My brother's wife was expecting her first baby any day. The family got together and gave her a shower. Several relatives decided to pool their money and buy substantial gifts—such as a crib, a high chair, and other pieces of furniture. The baby was born last week, but died after a few hours.

My mother thinks she should return the gifts. The heartbroken girl wants to give these gifts to her own sister who is expecting a baby. The relatives are mad because they say they did not buy the gifts for her sister but for HER.

Please, Ann, what is the right thing to do.—MIDDLE MAID

Dear Maid: I assume the girl is young and that she will one day have a family. She should store the gifts in the hope that she will be able to use them herself.

Witnesses to Lebanon For Weekend Meeting

Final plans have been made by the Sedalia congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses to attend a three-day circuit assembly in Lebanon May 8-10, according to Walter H. Meyer, local presiding minister.

A full program of activity has been planned for the gathering which opens on Friday evening. The keynote address, "Around The World With Jehovah's Witnesses," will be delivered by Harry C. Good, New York minister. A model Bible speaking class and a session of ministry development in which skits and playlets will be used to demonstrate ways to improve the effectiveness of their ministry, will conclude the program Friday evening.

A baptism ceremony will be held Saturday afternoon at which time several new ministers will be ordained. That evening a two-hour film entitled "Proclaiming Everlasting Good News Around The World," will be shown to all in attendance.

Climax of the assembly will be the public Bible address, "Facing Up To The Urgency Of Our Times," which will be delivered on Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m.

Several from Sedalia are attending, according to Meyer.

Spring Rally Begins At St. Paul Church

St. Paul's Lutheran Church will observe its spring mission rally at both Sunday morning services. Guest speaker will be the Rev. Alvin E. Ferber, who preaches to the deaf and hard of hearing in western Missouri and eastern Kansas.

Adult choir will rehearse at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Boy Scout Troop 69 will meet at 7 p.m. Monday.

Junior choir will rehearse at 3:45 p.m. Thursday.

Sunday school and Bible class teachers will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Dr. Odell Will Examine Christian Home

"The Christian Home" is the subject of Dr. Garner S. Odell's sermon Sunday Morning.

Junior High Fellowship will have a picnic from 5 to 9 p.m. Saturday at the Richard Parkhurst farm. Members and guests are to meet Sunday evening. Senior High Fellowship will meet at 7 p.m. Sunday. Susan McCarty and Jim Hobdy will continue discussion of the book, "Is God Alive?"

Junior High's who plan to attend camp this summer are to send in applications by May 15.

Registrations for Senior High Conference are due by June 1. Vacation Church School Workshop will be at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in Fellowship Hall. A Nursery will be provided.

Board of Deacons meeting scheduled for Wednesday has been postponed until May 20.

A Presbytery Conference on Evangelism will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Fellowship Hall. Dr. Andrew Newcomer, Kansas City, will be the leader. Elders, deacons and organization officers may attend.

Boy Scout Troop 65 will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Adult Choir will rehearse at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Junior choir will rehearse at 4:15 p.m. Thursday.

Night Group, Women's Association will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday with Miss Margaret Odell, 2607 Anderson.

Mariners will meet Sunday, May 17. A covered dish dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. Slides will be shown on "Family Camping." On the committee are Cleo and Viola Cecil and John and Ona Mae Miers.

Christian Home Festival At Federated

"The Festival of the Christian Home" will be observed Sunday at the Federated Church. Also, it will be "Mother's Day." The subject of the sermon will be: "The Long Way Home."

At the console of the organ, Mrs. Morris Lees will play as prelude: "I Know Whom I Have Believed," by McGranahan; as offertory, "Songs My Mother Taught Me," by Dvorak; as postlude, "All Hail The Power," by Lane and arranged by Stults.

Mrs. Ida Hoffman and Mrs. L. G. Berry will greet the congregation at the doors.

Miss Mary Hurlbut, delegate, and the pastor will attend the second annual meeting of Missouri conference, United Church of Christ, at Mehlville, Mo., from Monday until Wednesday.

Boy Scouts, Troop 51, will meet Monday evening at 7 o'clock with their new scoutmaster, Harvey May. The assistant scoutmasters are: Ray Banks, Ed Brummett and Richard Ditzfield. The Scouts will attend Camporee near Hughesville Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The Board of Trustees will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. The choir will rehearse Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the church parlors.

The Guild will meet Thursday, May 14, at the home of Mrs. K. U. Love, 702 South Barrett, with Mrs. F. C. Wilhite and Mrs. H. F. Keens, assisting.

Oppose Wire Taps

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Sen. John E. Downs, D-St. Joseph, says he plans to introduce legislation in the next General Assembly to prohibit wire tapping or the recording of any conversation without the knowledge of persons involved.

Downs said he had been informed by high law enforcement officers that the practice of wire tapping was widespread in Missouri.

The senator said a U. S. Senate committee in 1940 accused some federal officers of using wire taps against people not of their political thinking.

"Twenty five years late the federal Congress has still failed to act," he said.

weakened Pettis County jail and escaped the night of Aug. 24 last year.

The youth remained at liberty until Nov. 14 when he was picked up for investigation by Pontiac, Mich., police, who notified Pettis County authorities. McCormick was returned here on Dec. 3.

A psychiatric examination for McCormick was requested by his court-appointed attorney Donald Barnes, and the test showed the youth was competent to stand trial and assist in his own defense.

McCormick was held overnight Thursday in the Pettis Co. jail and Friday morning was taken to the state prison in Jefferson City by Deputy Jack Couts.

Following McCormick's jailbreak and subsequent re-arrest he was placed under maximum security and held at the Saline County jail in Marshall. He had intimidated to sheriff's officers that he would escape again if the opportunity arose.

A make-up clinic for those persons who missed the third and final dose in the Sabin oral polio immunization series will be held between the hours of 12 noon and 6 p.m. Saturday at Sacred Heart School, in the 400 block of West Third.

This final makeup effort will conclude the program which began on March 1.

Rusk Seeks Backing For US Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk flies to Europe today to urge NATO allies to contribute more to the fight against Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam and to support the U.S. economic boycott of Cuba.

Rusk will attend a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization foreign ministers at the Hague next week following a visit to Brussels.

On the eve of Rusk's departure, Undersecretary of State George Ball sharply challenged the idea attributed to President Charles de Gaulle of France that the Atlantic Alliance serves the defense of the West and should be preserved but that its organization is a bad idea.

Some U.S. officials said this reasoning could lead to a conclusion that the basic defense pledge of NATO should be preserved but that the military command system should be radically altered and weakened if not actually abandoned.

Ball did not mention France or de Gaulle by name, but his speech at Georgetown University was in some ways the most outspoken discussion of the dangers facing NATO heard in a long time.

"The Atlantic world feels increasingly strong and confident of the future," Ball said. "There is danger that, if this happy state persists for long, some may be tempted to regard the obligations of a massive enterprise such as NATO as unnecessarily heavy, and some of our European friends — out of a sense of newfound confidence — may be led to consider NATO as too much an American show. There is already an apparent trend that way."

Officials said Rusk would welcome any suggestions for improving or strengthening NATO, but he does not expect decisions at the Hague conference on NATO issues.

What he hopes to accomplish is agreement by individual Allied leaders to provide greater assistance to the embattled government of South Viet Nam — assistance in the form of technical experts in transportation, agriculture, and the like and also direct economic help.

In the case of Cuba, Rusk believes that in spite of the recent breakaway from Britain and France from the U.S. policy of economic isolation the Allied governments can still be persuaded to lower the level of their trade.

A British firm has sold buses to Cuba. A French firm sold the Communist country trucks, and more recently another French firm concluded a deal for 20 locomotives.

Farmer Battling With Phone Firm

PALESTINE, Tex. (AP) — Something has to give on Juan Macias' place today—either the Texas Telephone and Telegraph Co.'s cable underlying the land, or the farmer's determination in a phone bill fuss.

Macias has his tractor parked beside the cable ready to jerk it out unless the company begins removing it by 4 p.m.

He received verbal support Thursday from the Rev. Collin Furr, president of a telephone subscribers association opposing a recent rate increase of 33½ per cent.

The farmer and some 2,000 other subscribers want the rate hike rescinded, or their phones removed. The company cut Macias' service after he paid part of a back bill, but he contends that if he doesn't have service, the company shouldn't have access across his land.

"I've got to do this to show them I mean business," Macias said.

Rothschild Cashier Robbed by 2 Gunmen

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The cashier of Rothschild's downtown store (at 10th and Main) was robbed of $4,000 Thursday night by two gunmen.

One robber guarded four women in the credit department while the other forced the cashier, Mrs. Ruth Masur, 51, to put the money in a plastic sack. Then the men walked out.

Accidents

The intersection of Broadway and Engineer was the scene of a two car collision at 8:34 p.m. Thursday.

Involved were a 1958 Chevrolet, and reportedly negotiating a left turn on to Engineer, driven west on Broadway by Randall H. Broyles, 60, 801 West Main, and a 1960 Dodge, driven north on Engineer by Paul D. Bass, 20, Florence.

Damaged were the right rear of the Broyles car and the front of the Bass car.

One unoccupied car rolled from its parking place and damaged another parked car at 10th and Massachusetts at 10:30 a.m. Friday.

Police reported a 1962 Chevrolet station wagon, which had been parked by John S. Canfield, 17, 415 North Prospect, rolled into a 1950 Pontiac, owned by Harry W. McFatrigh, 1305 West 16th. Damage was recorded to the left rear door of the McFatrigh car.

A Sedalian was involved in an auto accident on Highway 65 three-tenths of a mile south of Benton County HH on Highway 65 about 8 a.m. Friday, but no injuries were reported.

The Highway Patrol said a 1951 Chevrolet, being driven north by Roger Thomas, 49, Boonville, left the roadway on the right side and then struck a 1961 Ford, also northbound, driven by August Dahlke, 64, 634 East 16th, Sedalia.

Thomas was issued a ticket for following too close, the patrol said.

Two Johnson County men were injured about midnight Thursday when the car they were riding in left the road of the first curve west of Black Forest Motel on Highway 50.

James Hall Lakey, 42, Route 1, Warrensburg, driver of the 1956 Studebaker sedan, suffered a laceration of the forehead, laceration from the temple down the left side of his cheek near the eye, both eyes bruised, a broken nose, broken upper jaw, concussion and a possible skull fracture.

Leo M. Stewart, 42, Route 5, Warrensburg, a passenger in the car received a severe laceration of the forehead.

Both men were brought to Bothwell Hospital in an Ewing ambulance and treated by Dr. H. O. Wilbur.

Trooper Robert Bruce of the State Highway Patrol investigated. Deputy Sheriff Jack Couts who was stopped by a truck driver and informed of the accident went to the scene and directed traffic.

According to the report Lakey was headed west on Highway 50 and failed to straighten his car after making the curve. The car went off the left side of the highway, struck a small telephone pole splintering it, then went down a fence row ripping out several posts and about 50 yards of wire fencing.

The car was towed to Sedalia by the Bacon's wrecker.

Pressure Ease In Sessions For Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders announced there would be no session Saturday in the civil rights debate. It was another sign that pressure through prolonged sessions was easing off.

Senators applauded when Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., the assistant leader, said the Senate would recess at the close of today's business until Monday.

The Senate has met every Saturday since the debate started March 9 except for the Easter weekend.

The leaders also appear practically to have abandoned night sessions in the marathon debate.

The leaders are basing their hopes for passage of the bill on negotiations being conducted in the office of Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, of Illinois, to work out a package of amendments to the bill.

Today's study was of changes Dirksen wants in the public accommodations section.

A key figure in negotiations aimed at breaking the Senate's impasse over the House-passed measure, Dirksen already has presented 69 proposed amendments to other sections in conferences held in his office this week.

Participating in the conferences have been Senate leaders of both parties and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and his top aides in the civil rights field.

Fifth, reported to police Thursday evening that someone had stolen his red 26-inch bicycle. The theft occurred while the bicycle was in front of his house.

Mrs. Fred Cnic, 236 South Quincy, reported to police Friday morning that a girl's model 26-inch bicycle was taken out of the garage at their residence.

A basement door and a window at the Hubbard Park swimming pool building were broken sometime overnight Thursday.

L. R. Black, city park superintendent, reported to police.

Police radar operating on an ever shifting schedule continues to nail speeders at late hours.

Two motorists were arrested at about 1:45 a.m. Friday morning for speeding on East Third Street near Third and Mill. They were clocked at 32 and 41 m.p.h. in the 20 mile speed zone, police said.

A Sedalian reported to police at 10:30 a.m. Thursday night a beer bottle had been thrown at his 1955 automobile while he was enroute to Sedalia on the Waterworks Road.

Gary Lee Petree, 413 North Engineer, told officers the bottle broke the right rear door glass in the car.

Police reported no new information Friday in their quest for a small black dog—believed to have been a cocker spaniel—which bit 11-year-old Linda Becker, C-58 Saturn, at Bing's No. 1 Supermarket on South Limit Wednesday afternoon.

If the dog cannot be located, police say the girl may require a series of shots to prevent possible rabies.

Anyone with information concerning the biting incident or the dog should notify police.

Scruton Gets Award For Story He Wrote

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Jack Hill of the St. Joseph News-Press was the April winner in the bright story contest for staffers on Missouri member newspapers.

His story was about the Municipal Court witness who said she had called a neighbor to complain about his dog running on her property and got this answer: "Lady, you are barking up the wrong tree."

Mrs. Janet Branham, the Trenton Republican-Times, was second with her story about the little boy who got a free wiener sandwich at a grocery store and then dashed into a restaurant for the catsup.

D. Kelly Scruton of the Sedalia Democrat was given third place for his story about the fire department making a dash to put out a fire in a police car.

16 Counties Must Raise Assessment

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The state Tax Commission has notified 16 counties their assessment of real estate must be boosted to come in line with the regulation that they be at least 30 per cent of actual value.

Some others, Commission Chairman John A. Williams said today, are being watched to see if they can meet the regulation this year without an order from the commission.

The 16, Williams said, have allowed their assessments to slip below 25 per cent of actual value. The ones being watched have assessment levels between 25 and 30 per cent of actual value.

It's a part of the continuing scrutiny by the commission since a 1955 regulation set the 30 per cent minimum assessment level. Some county assessors then were setting assessments as low as 12 per cent of actual value and there was much local consternation when the regulation was invoked in a number of the lowest counties.

One of the low counties this year, Williams said, is Boone County. But there a complete re-evaluation of real estate is being made and the commission chairman expressed the belief taxing levels would be brought in line this year.

These other counties have been notified they must boost their assessment levels this year or the commission will do it for them:

Buchanan, Callaway, Cedar, Cass, Henry, Howell, Knox, Mississippi, New Madrid, Osage, Polk, Ripley, Scott, Stoddard and Stone.

"Some of them slipped pretty bad," Williams said, but did not indicate which ones.

Annual Retail Sales Plans Are Arranged

Plans for four city-wide retail sales promotions to be held in Sedalia, one in each of the four seasons, were made by the Chamber of Commerce Retail Merchants Committee at a meeting held Thursday afternoon.

The meeting was opened by Dan Robinson, Chamber director, with an appeal for all Sedalia retailers, both downtown and outside of the downtown area, to work together for the common good of all Sedalia, and the establishment of the entire city as a good place to visit, shop and arrange for services.

Neil Chapman, director and chairman of the retail merchants committee, suggested a schedule of promotions which would include a "Harvest Festival," "Moonlight Madness" sales promotion, "Sidewalk Days" and a "Fun In The Sun" promotion in the spring of 1965. The group approved the tentative schedule and requested Chapman and his committee to work out the dates and details and report to the Chamber membership.

Present at the meeting in addition to those named were: E. W. Thompson, Martin Goodrich, Richard Chestnut, Lou Tempel, David Routsong, Jack Shoemaker, Robert Cain, Robert Rudisill, Carl Yates, K. U. Love, Damon Hieronymus, Vernon Bingham, Cecil Owens, Chamber president, and Sam Boyle, executive manager.

Make-up Meet Tonite

A make-up session for members of the Pettis County 4-H Outdoorsman Club, who missed the rifle and archery practice session Thursday night, will be held at the Don Walz farm just north of Sedalia on Highway 65 from 4:30 p.m. until dark tonight.

Harry Speaks Out on Some Tough Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harry S. Truman, feeling just fine, thank you on his 80th birthday today, solved problems right and left but confessed that a worry was gnawing at him.

The worry: What will Bess, the former first lady whom he left back home in Independence, Mo., think of his performance in Washington?

"She is always afraid," he said, "that I will insult somebody I am not supposed to insult."

So far Truman, special guest of President Johnson and the nation, has avoided insulting anybody.

But he has given an elder statesman's advice on several problems including:

1. How long should a president work each day. Fourteen hours, Truman said flatly.

Mother Award Will Be Given, Faith Baptist

A "Christian Mother of the Year" award will be given to one of the mothers of Faith Baptist Church this Sunday. The honor will be determined by ballot during the Sunday School hour and announced at the morning service. Qualifications for this award are taken from Proverbs 31. They are: God-fearing; charitable; honors husband; loved by family; and industrious.

Awards will also be given to the three oldest mothers, the three youngest mothers and the three mothers with the most children present. The Rev. Roger Martin's topic will be "A Christian Mother." "God Will Take Care of You" will be the choir number. Special music and the Rev. and Mrs. Roger Martin, Mrs. Harold Ryan and Mrs. Kenneth Keele who will sing, "My Sins Are Gone." Mrs. Martin will sing "Come Unto Me" by Milan.

Special request night for congregational singing will be observed at the evening service. Special music will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Mel Crumbliss and the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Martin. The choir will present "Singing Glory." After the service, youth of the church will meet to study Old Testament prophecy.

Child Evangelism Fellowship Conference will be held at the church. The conference theme is "When Shall We Sow The Seed?" Aspects of teacher training for children will be stressed in lecture and workshop sessions. Mrs. Stella Fisher and Miss Mabel DeNormandie, a national CEF team for many years, will be featured speakers. Sessions will be from 10 a. m. to noon; 1 to 3 p. m.; and at 7:30 p. m. Vernon Roth, Missouri CEF Director, is program sponsor.

Adult Classes Begin At Christ Lutheran

Christ Lutheran Church will begin a new series of pastor's classes for adults at 7 p. m. Sunday. The classes attempt to review basic Christian teachings, in a discussion setting. Sessions will be held in the church basement each Sunday evening for about 12 weeks. Luther Leaguers will provide child care.

Worship emphasis will be "I Will Give Instead of Receiving" at both services. "In the Master's Footsteps" will be the last of the post-Easter series. Sacrament of baptism will be included in the later service.

Luther Leaguers will meet at 7 p. m. Sunday at the church for program and recreation. The Church Council will meet at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Dresden Baptist Revival Starts Sunday

A revival rally will be held at 7:45 p. m. Saturday at Dresden Baptist Church, Dresden, in preparation for the May 10-17 revival.

Evangelist will be R. J. Taylor, Kansas City. He has been a pastor for 15 years in Texas, Arkansas, Missouri and Kansas. For the past four years he has been a full time evangelist. He has preached on "The Old Time Religion Hour" for the last year and a half.

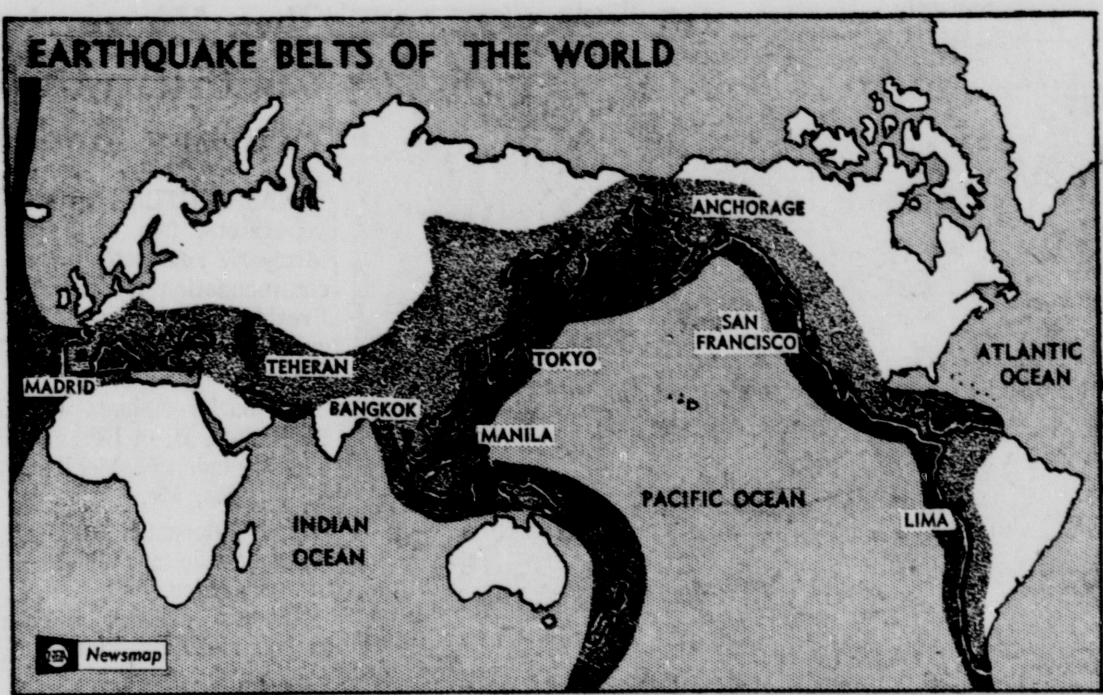

The Rev. Gary Taylor, son of the evangelist, is pastor of the Dresden church.

Bobby Not Surprised By Votes for Wallace

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy says he "was not surprised" at the strong vote for Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama in the Indiana presidential primary.

Kennedy, speaking to 300 law students at the University of Pennsylvania Wednesday, said "there is a revolution now in the United States over civil rights and people don't like to have their lives disturbed."

"It's not surprising then," he added, "that one-third of the people in Indiana voted for Wallace. About one-fifth of the people are against everything all the time."

SHAKY WORLD—Superimposed over a map of the world are the earthquake belts, those areas where earthquakes are most likely to occur. This map was evolved through the years largely through the efforts of men such as F. de Montessus de Ballore who plotted some 160,000 earthquakes on a map and arrived at a configuration similar to that of the newsmag above. Earthquakes happen in these areas because of a sharp fracture or break in the earth's crust along these broad lines.

12 Confirmants At Immanuel This Sunday

Twelve confirmants will be presented to Immanuel United Church of Christ (Evangelical and Reformed) Sunday by Pastor Armin F. Klemme. They are: Marvin Burkhalter, Michael Burkhalter, Dee Ellison, Janice Hill, Joe Hunter, Debra Lyles, John Mehan, Fred Offenberg, Ruby Offenberg, Gerald Schroeder, Linda Schupp and Joyce Zimmerschied. Various questions on their studies will be asked of them.

Prior to this service (during the Church School hour) the pastor will hold the third of four adult membership class sessions.

At the conclusion of the service of worship a special congregational meeting will be held to inform members on the work of the pulpit committee and to carry out any necessary action for their future work. All members are asked to be present for the meeting.

Long Police Chase Ends in an Accident

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Two reserve policemen started chasing Lloyd R. Navratil when they saw him speeding in the wrong lane without lights, and it wound up 21 minutes later with Navratil hung up on a fence behind two houses and a cordon of officers firing 16 bullets into his red station wagon. He wasn't hurt.

The chase started in the park area between the Nelson Art Gallery and the University of Missouri at Kansas City, and wound through an area a dozen blocks wide and fifteen blocks long.

A dozen police cars were in pursuit when Navratil gunned into a dead end stub of Harrison Street south of 48th and the car came to rest against a woven wire fence.

Navratil, 42, was booked for investigation until officers could cross-check their reports and figure how many traffic charges they had against him.

Long, Symington Vote Against Jury Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP)—Roll calls in the Senate Wednesday on two amendments to the civil rights bill included the following:

An amendment to guarantee jury trials in all criminal contempt cases arising out of the civil rights bill, defeated 46-45.

Democrats for — Edmondson of Oklahoma.

Republicans for — Pearson of Kansas.

Democrats against — Long and Symington of Missouri; Monroney of Oklahoma.

An amendment which would have required jury trials in criminal contempt proceedings arising under the public accommodations and fair employment sections, but left jury trials for proceedings under other sections within the discretion of the judge, defeated 74-19.

Republicans for — Pearson of Kansas.

Democrats against — Long and Symington of Missouri; Edmondson and Monroney of Oklahoma.

Republican Carlson of Kansas was not listed in the tabulation on either roll call.

Have Stake In Care For Mentally Ill

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Missourians have a great stake in community and regional projects designed to help thousands of mentally ill fellow state citizens, the president of the Missouri Association for Mental Health said today.

Jack Stapleton Jr. of Kennett urged, in a statement marking National Mental Health Month, that Missourians support these state projects. His statement was issued through the association's headquarters here.

"Many chapters of the association this month are conducting membership and fund campaigns which will help provide proper care and treatment for the one out of 10 Missourians who will need psychiatric treatment during their lifetime," Stapleton said, continuing.

"There is much that Missourians can do to alleviate this No. 1 health problem in the state."

"For one thing, citizens can join their local or regional mental health chapters and participate in one of many different projects designed to help the mentally ill, either in the community setting or in one of the state's mental hospitals. Citizens also can contribute to fund campaigns which will be conducted this month, thereby supporting both direct and indirect services for many of their fellow citizens." He added:

"The facts are that there are more Missourians in mental hospitals today than Missourians in general hospitals. Until this problem is solved, Missouri as well as every state in the nation will waste vast human resources by failing to provide adequate care and treatment in both private and public facilities."

Trail Leads To Body Of Another Boy

HILLSVILLE, Va. (AP)—FBI agents, following a trail from Massachusetts to Georgia through an ex-convict's use of stolen credit cards, have found the body of a missing eight-year-old New Jersey boy — the third such discovery in little more than a month.

Use of a credit card at a nearby service station led the FBI Wednesday to the location in mountainous terrain of a body they identified as that of David Wulff, last seen when he left his home April 1 in Willingboro, N.J., to attend a school function.

While medical authorities checked for the cause of the boy's death, police sought to link it with Joseph Francis Bryan Jr., 25, of Audubon, N.J., already in custody in Sumter, S.C. on charges of kidnaping two other boys.

Bryan, one of the FBI's 10 most wanted criminals when he was arrested last Tuesday in New Orleans, has been charged with kidnaping John David Robison, 10, of Mt. Pleasant, S.C., and Dennis Burke, 8, of Humboldt, Tenn.

The body of young Robison, who disappeared from his home Feb. 27, was found March 31 in a shallow grave near Hallandale, Fla. The Burke boy had not been harmed when he was found with Bryan at the time of his arrest. Dennis had been missing from his home for four days.

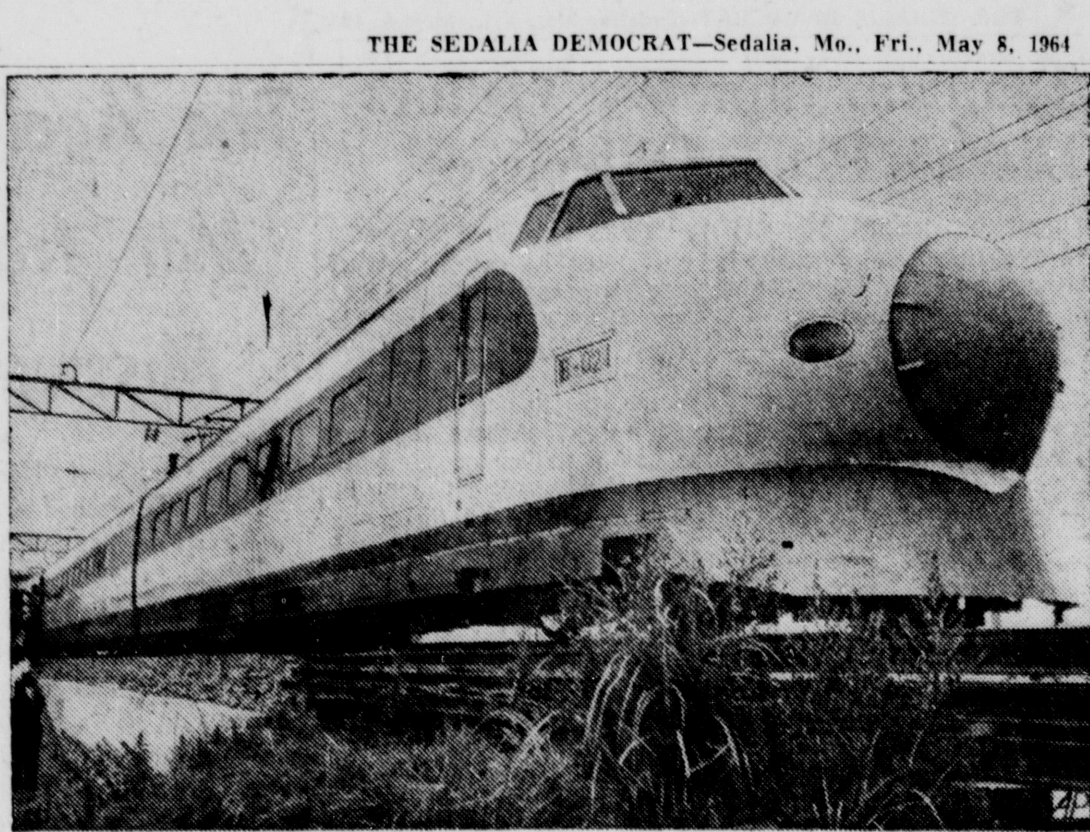

St. Petersburg, Fla., authorities have sought to link Bryan also with the March 23 disappearance there of Lewis (Hackie) Wilson, 7. The child's body was found last Thursday in a palmetto grove at Venice, Fla., near a spot the FBI has learned Bryan got stuck in the sand.

Bryan was arraigned Monday in New Orleans on the kidnaping charge in the Robison case and was returned to South Carolina to face court action.

Busy Year For Nikita Traveling

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—It's to be a busy season for Soviet Premier Khrushchev the traveler. This weekend he is arriving in Egypt for a three-week stay. Next month he comes to Scandinavia for two weeks.

Officials will keep an eye on how things are handled in Egypt as they plan step by step how to conduct Khrushchev's long-delayed visit to this area. He is coming here at a convivial time, and not a policeman in Denmark, Sweden or Norway will be idle.

Scandinavians are independent people with a strong dislike of being pushed around. They don't like forming into orderly lines, they have a profound belief in the principle of leave me alone and they object to rules. It's not an attitude likely to make a security officer happy in his work.

And Khrushchev will tour Scandinavia at the most relaxed time of the year—a time when police are inclined to wink at gay goings-on which reach a climax in the bonfires and party revels of midsummer night.

"We will be taking no chances none at all," says one senior Danish officer, "and particularly during the midsummer celebrations on and around June 21."

A veritable iron curtain of security will be thrown around Khrushchev from the moment he sets foot in Denmark.

The visit is widely regarded here as symbolizing a slowly relaxing tension in the cold war. Seven years ago plans for a similar tour foundered in a wave of bitterness, with the Russians complaining of a Scandinavian press vendetta against their leader.

This time the voices raised in protest are few.

Officials say they do not expect Khrushchev to make any overt attempt at swinging Scandinavia toward the Soviet camp, although he will certainly turn on his persuasive powers in private talks with prime ministers.

Denmark and Norway are solidly wedded to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and Sweden is a jealous guardian of the neutral line.

Khrushchev will be in Denmark June 17-21, in Sweden June 22-26 and Norway June 27-July 1.

Says FCC Should Regulate Cable TV

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Leroy Collins, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, said Tuesday that community antenna television systems—called cable television—should be recognized as an integral part of broadcasting and should be regulated by the Federal Communications Commission.

Collins made his comment in an address at a broadcasters' session of Journalism Week at the University of Missouri.

"Cable television," he said, "is a live issue in several central Missouri communities where companies are seeking licenses to pick up Kansas City and St. Louis stations by way of tall towers or microwave relays and deliver the pictures into homes by way of coaxial cables."

"CATV could make it possible for local outlets not to make money."

"That's very kind indeed."

"It must have been a very heavy responsibility to lead your country during the war time."

"I appreciate that. The objective was to end the war in such a way that there would not be half a million people killed on each side and that many injured and that's all there was to it. When you're running a war, the objective is to win it."

"We feel it was a height of folly to have ever challenged such a great country like yours."

"I don't think it was. It was a situation which you couldn't help, and it came about in such a way that we became enemies. We didn't have any business to be enemies because we'd always been friends."

"Yes, and it is due to America that Japan became what she has managed to become."

"I am just as happy as I can be that you feel that way."

"We certainly hope that anything of this sort will never happen again."

"You don't hope it any more than I do. If we support the United Nations, we won't have any trouble. If we don't, we'll have it over again."

"I hope it will work out well as you had planned."

The Japanese visitor was Dr. Takuo Matsumoto, 76, and president of Hiroshima College on Aug. 6, 1945. He lost his wife, 350 students and 18 of his faculty when the first atom bomb dropped.

His host was Harry S. Truman, who made the decision to drop the bomb. Neither mentioned it directly in their five-minute dialogue.

Dr. Matsumoto, now president of Shizuoka Christian College near Tokyo, was spokesman for eight hibakusha—"explosion-affected people"—from Hiroshima and Nagasaki who visited the Truman Library Tuesday.

They and two other groups make up a World Peace Study Mission which is touring the United States. All 30 will meet in Washington May 28 and leave from New York June 7 en route to Paris, Berlin and Moscow.

Few States Are Matching Funds For Mentally Ill

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Dr. Stafford L. Warren, a special assistant to President Johnson in the government's new programs to help the mentally retarded, said last night much federal assistance is available but only a few forward looking states have provided necessary matching funds.

"The federal action is but a pump primer—you are the people who must see that these plans are implemented," he told the annual convention of the American Association on Mental Deficiency.

Most of the members are doctors, psychologists or social workers at institutions for the mentally retarded. About 1,500 are expected to register before the convention ends Saturday.

Dr. Warren said money spent now to rehabilitate the mentally retarded can save money in the long run by making productive citizens of potential indigents and law-breakers.

Dr. Vernon E. Wilson, dean of the medical school at the University of Missouri, said only 200,000 of the nation's 5.4 million mentally retarded need maximum help in institutions and another 200,000 need supervision.

"America's concern for the retarded is proof of our growing maturity as a nation," Dr. Wilson said.

"How best to help them is a job for research, education and the co-ordination of medicine and social work in the guidance

The 'Ageless' Man from Missouri

Former President Harry S. Truman has reached 80, looks and feels as young as he was in 1940, 24 years ago. The familiar grin, the glasses, the rigid military posture haven't changed a bit. In 1940, Truman was a relatively obscure U. S. senator from Missouri. Today, he's an elder statesman and still a power in Democratic party politics.

In April 1964, Mr. Truman strolls past his old home in Washington, D.C.

Durward Hall Harsh Critic Of Pollster

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Durward G. Hall, R-Mo., said Wednesday that CBS coverage of the Indiana presidential primary with pollster Louis Harris as commentator was an example of "managed news."

Hall said in a House speech that Harris, "who you will recall served as President Kennedy's right hand man in the 1960 campaign," attributed the heavy vote for Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama to "heavy Republican crossover."

Wallace, who fought to continue school segregation in Alabama and is campaigning nationally on a states right issue, got about 30 per cent of the Democratic presidential preference vote.

"Democrat Harris even had the gall to say that 11 per cent of Gov. Wallace's total vote came from Republicans who 'crossed over,'" Hall said. "Neither Mr. Harris, nor anyone else in these United States knows how many if any Republicans crossed over."

"I'm sick and tired of the public airwaves being used to spread the propaganda of a former Democratic pollster who finds a sinister Republican plot behind every Democratic disaster." of communities eager to do their part . . .

"The new national emphasis by the late President Kennedy and new laws are opening the way for such progress."

Predicts Good Participation In Wheat Plan

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Undersecretary of Agriculture Charles S. Murphy said he expects considerable participation by farmers in the new wheat law signed by President Johnson April 11.

Murphy addressed a dinner Wednesday night of the Department of Agriculture Club of Greater Kansas City.

"I don't see how the farmers can fail to sign up for this voluntary wheat program," he said.

The law was an outgrowth of an acute income problem among wheat farmers, Murphy said. The forecast was for $600 million less farm income in 1964 than in 1963 and, he added, "it seemed to the administration that this was really an intolerable prospect."

Murphy also discussed the present concern over imports of beef.

"Imports are a significant factor in the beef problems," he said, "but they are far from being the whole story. Even if imports were ended, there would remain some serious problems in the beef market."

The food-for-peace program, he reminded, is multi-purpose in scope, useful both for foreign aid and for the removal of surpluses.

He also touched on the administration's anti-poverty drive, and said the federal food stamp program is serving 350,000 citizens in 22 states at a cost of $40 million a year.

Under a new bill, he said, recipients will contribute toward

This is in addition to the surplus food distribution program which helps seven million needy, Murphy said, at a cost of between $600 and $700 million yearly.

Two Missouri Youths Awarded Bravery Medals

WASHINGTON (AP)—Five youngsters, two of them from Missouri, received medals and commendation Wednesday from President Johnson. All were credited with life saving acts of bravery.

Missouri recipients were Paul R. Tucker, 11, of Berkeley, Mo., and Raymond N. Moeller, 12, of St. Charles, Mo.

Their parents watched the ceremony in the White House flower garden.

"Your President congratulates you and says thanks to you on behalf of a grateful nation," Johnson said. He told the medal winners nothing gives him more pleasure than to recognize outstanding achievements of youngsters and he called their bravery "most heartwarming and stirring."

Each medal winner also was handed a citation for bravery.

The medals were awarded by the American Automobile Association to the school patrol youngsters.

ABWA Picks 'Its Boss Of Year'

William R. Parkhurst, president of the Parkhurst Manufacturing Co., was chosen as the "Boss of the Year" at the annual Bosses Night dinner of the American Business Women's Association, held Tuesday evening at Bothwell Hotel.

Parkhurst was the guest of his employee, Miss Mary Merriott, a member of the organization and was presented a trophy for the honor bestowed upon him, with Mrs. Evelyn Rabourn making the presentation. Mrs. Rabourn stated that he had been selected by a secret committee who felt that the assistance he had given the club in all of its projects through the years Miss Merriott, a past president of ABWA, had been a member had been invaluable to the club. At the close a poem describing him and his cooperation with the club, without telling his name, was read by Mrs. Rabourn. Parkhurst was then asked to come forward and accept the "Boss of the Year" award.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. T. E. Gasperson, president, and the invocation was given by Mrs. Mary Maddox.

Mrs. Gasperson gave the welcome to the bosses with Jack Delph giving the response. The theme of the meeting was the "Big Wheels" and Delph pointed out that there were all types of wheels but every wheel had to have spokes and the spokes were the employees. A wheel, he said, wouldn't amount to anything without the spokes.

The special music was given by a mixed quartet introduced by Mrs. C. W. Blankenship. They were Mrs. Hershel Cantrell, Mrs. Stanley Fisher, Raymond Hall and Francis Rudd with Mrs. Hall at the piano.

The quartet sang: "Katie," "Lead Me Gently Home Father" and "Thanks Be To God."

Each ABWA member introduced her boss and any other guest she had invited.

The speaker of the evening was Fred Wertz, who with his wife, visited relatives in Russia three years ago. He showed some of the things they brought back, as well as slides taken while they were there.

Mrs. Rabourn, program chairman, introduced the speaker. She also told about ABWA explaining that its main purpose was to create better employer-employee relationship and that it was organized in Kansas City by a man who felt there was a need for an organization that stressed the importance of women employees working to the best of their ability for their bosses.

The benediction was given by Miss Margaret Bohon.

At each place were white carnation corsages, the club flower, tied with gold and black ribbon, the club colors, for the women, and a scroll expressing appreciation to the bosses. The centerpiece for the table was of white carnations in a gold and black container.

LONDON (AP) — Barbara Fell, 55, a British civil servant imprisoned for giving information to her Yugoslav lover, has been freed.

The Home Office said she was released from prison Wednesday. She went into seclusion, and her attorneys said she would make no statement.

Miss Fell was chief officer of the Central Information Office's overseas division. She was convicted of communicating confidential reports on the political situation in Yugoslavia to Smiljan Pacjak, a press counsellor at the Yugoslav Embassy in London.

At her trial she admitted being Pacjak's mistress, said she considered he was pro-Western and believed the reports on his country would make him more so.

VIENNA (AP) — Czechoslovakia's Communist government is finally taking steps to put something in the place of Prague's giant Stalin monument, torn down 17 months ago.

Radio Prague reported the government has invited architects to submit designs for a cultural center at the site on Letna Hill.

LONDON (AP) — Britain's National Gallery has bought Lord Derby's celebrated Rembrandt "Belshazzar's Feast," for 170,000 pounds ($476,000).

Experts value the painting at more than a million dollars, but if Lord Derby sold at that price to a private buyer he would have to pay half in taxes.

The painting has been at the Derby family's 700-year-old mansion, since the early 18th century at least.

Experts say the picture dates from 1634 or 1635.

Top Newsmen Honored At MU J-Week

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The University of Missouri School of Journalism presented its honor award for distinguished service today to four journalists and two newspapers.

The awards presentation by Dean Earl F. English was a feature of the school's annual Journalism Week celebration.

The honors went to Walter Cronkite, managing editor of the Columbia Broadcasting System's evening news program; Benjamin M. McKelway, vice president and editorial chairman of the Washington (D.C.) Star; Dr. DeWitt C. Reddick, director of the University of Texas School of Journalism; Arthur L. Witman, magazine photographer for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch; the Detroit News and the Washington (Mo.) Missourian.

Martin S. Hayden, editor of the Detroit News, represented his publication and James L. Miller, publisher of the weekly Missourian received the award for that newspaper.

Dr. Reddick was the scheduled speaker for the awards presentation while Cronkite and McKelway were to speak at a banquet tonight.

Cronkite was honored for his career of more than a quarter of a century as a reporter, managing editor and news broadcaster. His work in coverage of the assassination of President Kennedy was singled out for special notice.

McKelway's award pointed to his career of nearly half a century, most of which has been spent with the Washington Star; his service both as director and one-time president of The Associated Press; and his work as trustee and adviser for universities, libraries and foundations.

Dr. Reddick was described as an "outstanding teacher of journalism for more than 35 years." The award listed his achievements as an author of leading textbooks and as organizer and 24-year director of the Texas Interscholastic League.

Witman was praised as a charter member of the National Press Photographers Association; his work with young people interested in visual reporting; and his "deep interest in photojournalism education at both the professional and academic levels."

The Detroit News was singled out for "its long career of intelligent and courageous service; its establishment of WWJ, the world's first regularly scheduled radio station; its function as a "training school" for such newspapermen as E. W. Scripps and George G. Booth and "the founding genius,

James E. Scripps"; and "its unusual record of continuous control and forthright editorial policy over more than 90 years."

The Washington Missourian was recognized for "its record of holding more awards in every category of the Better Newspaper Contests than any other weekly newspaper in Missouri" along with its "contribution to the growth of its community and state."

Don't Know Their Kind

Often, animals which are raised apart from their kind are unaware of the species to which they belong. An orphaned white peacock in a Vienna zoo, for instance, was kept in a house with giant tortoises and for the rest of its life, the bird remained unresponsive to the charms of the prettiest peahens, seeing only in the huge reptiles the object of its fancy.

New Reforms For NATO In the Mill

PARIS (AP) — Major reforms in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization reportedly will be urged at the spring meeting of the alliance's foreign ministers in the Hague next week.

The proposals reflect the wide political and military changes since 1949, when NATO was created to rally war-ravaged Western Europe in common defense against the threat of Communist aggression.

One possible effect would be to diminish the role of the United States and Britain in the 15-nation alliance.

In the forefront of those seeking a major shakeup in the NATO structure is French President Charles de Gaulle, who has long chafed under what he considers the alliance's Anglo-Saxon leadership. Informed sources said Wednesday that French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville will not make any specific recommendations.

But Couve de Murville is expected to expound De Gaulle's views, and West Germany and Italy may join France in seeking a larger voice in NATO, reflecting their postwar resurgence.

Officials doubt that any hard decisions will emerge next week. They say some questions raised may be taken up at a special meeting of the NATO defense ministers in July.

The only formal action likely in the Hague is an announcement that Manlio Brosio, Italy's ambassador to France, will succeed Dirk U. Stikker of the Netherlands as NATO secretary-general. Brosio formerly was Italy's ambassador in Washington. Stikker has announced he will resign Aug. 1 because of his health.

Sources in Paris said some members of the alliance — not necessarily France — will urge closer coordination between NATO's military and political planners. They may recommend transfer of the alliance's top military body, the standing group, from Washington to Paris, where the civilian permanent council sits.

The political planners have sometimes been unaware of what takes place at the military consultations across the Atlantic.

De Gaulle wants the alliance to reflect the economic and military recovery of Western Europe; the diminished threat from the Soviet bloc; the acquisition of nuclear weapons by France, and the apparent nuclear stalemate between the United States and the Soviet Union.

De Gaulle finds no reason for the United States to continue to exercise paramount authority in NATO and asks why the supreme commander in Europe must always be an American.

Mediocre or Supermundane?

"What's for this space Friday?" we meditate under pressure of taking off for Columbia within the hour in the rain to attend an annual dinner of past presidents of the Missouri Press Association, which we served as president twelve years ago. How time moves along!

Do elemental themes attract more readership than the supermundane? Subjects discussed on the ground level bring more telephone calls of approval, but a few critics attach to them the label of mediocrity.

A psychological slant on this reaction lends itself from a telephone call by a woman reader who was complimentary. She said she was characteristically high-tempered with a tendency to be over-critical rather than pleasant in conversation with others. Wanting to correct this habit she discovered considerable relief could be obtained when she felt the urge to pop off by compelling herself to call up some one and say nice things to them, not gushy but really sincere.

It works. Everyone has some homely attributes if one would but look for them in another. Then why not recognize them orally or in writing. Either way it will please and stimulate the recipient. And if this energizes the morale of the donor of compliments as well, then surely the gesture is an accomplishment bearing fruitful results in an era when individual and neighborly harmony is so much in demand.

Well, now, the clock stands at three and we must be off for Columbia. Ringing in our ears on the way will be the words supermundane and mediocrity.

This ditty probably rates the latter classification.

We'll never know unless someone speaks up.

Do be kind!

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A Pettis county grand jury which investigated reports of indecent shows, gambling and liquor sales at the Missouri State Fair last fall, reported that it found no basis for indictments. The jury also recommended something be done about the Pettis county jail. William R. Courtney was foreman of the jury. By strange coincidence Circuit Clerk Bryan Howe picked out of court files, a grand jury report made in 1891 which stated: "Humanity demands that something be done about the Pettis county jail, and recommended it and the grounds be sold and other grounds purchased and a new and more commodious jail built at the very earliest possible date." This report was signed by William Courtney's father, William R. Courtney who was foreman in 1891. (Note: Pettis county still has the old jail at the same location.)

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Truman Hits 80 at Lively Pace

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—There is no former president of the United States who has called me more names yet whom I revere more than the man who today celebrates his eightieth birthday.

This statement would appear to put me in the position of either great inconsistency or great love of punishment. However, Mr. Truman has had moments of inconsistency too; for on one occasion he came up to me at a Washington reception and said in a tone of mock reproach: "Drew, this is all your fault. If you hadn't written those stories about the Truman committee suggesting I be vice president, I wouldn't be in all this trouble."

Let me add, for those who have forgotten—and I'm sure Mr. Truman hasn't—that I always supported him on the big issues and lauded his great courage in meeting them.

If it had not been for that courage in going to the rescue of Europe with the Marshall Plan, Western Europe would not be the bastion of free enterprise and independence that it is today. I know something about this, because I traveled through France and Italy on the Friendship Train a few months before the Marshall Plan was launched, and saw firsthand how those countries were tottering on the brink of chaos.

If it had not been for Truman's forthright declaration of aid to Greece and Turkey, furthermore, those key guardians of the eastern Mediterranean would have fallen to Stalinist communism.

Finally, if it had not been for Truman's vigorous and unflinching build-up of the United Nations, there would be no real peace-keeping machinery in the world today.

On these tough issues, I supported Harry. On the extra-curricular activities of his cronies, I did not.

Let's forget the past, however, and write about the present.

I know few men of eighty who have grown old more gradually, more philosophically, and in a sense more vigorously, than Harry Truman.

Busy Historian

Whenever I have visited him at his library in Independence, he has been busy with history and with young people. Two or three times a day at the Truman Library he takes time out to address groups of high school students. He has also lectured at universities all over the country. It keeps him young, he says, and it gives those who hear him lessons of modern history direct from the man who made that history.

Mr. Truman once told me how his mother had taken him out of school because of delicate health when he was about twelve, and how during that period he read the Encyclopaedia Britannica from cover to cover. He is still studying history.

It has always seemed to me that a man of Mr. Truman's prestige and background should be utilized more by his government, and I thought President Johnson was wise in asking him to go to Athens for the funeral of the late King Paul.

On one occasion Mr. Truman was reminiscing to me about World War I and expressed the hope that someday he could go back to the Vosges mountains where he once commanded Battery D of the Missouri National Guard.

"I knew every path and byway of those hills," he said. "I'd like to go back and see whether they have changed, whether any of those old ladies that helped patch our pockets are left. I don't suppose they are. But I'd like to go back."

I once asked Mr. Truman how he kept his health.

"I get up early and take a long walk," he replied. "Then I eat a fairly big breakfast—all I want. For lunch I eat very little—just a sandwich or so. After that I take a 30-minute nap. Even if I'm just sitting in my chair I lean back and doze for about a half hour."

"Finally, in the evening I eat a light supper—not much of anything—and go to bed fairly early."

Foresaw Suez War

In the spring of 1956, I recall visiting Mr. Truman and asking him about the prospects of war.

"I'm not worried about war between the United States and Russia," he said. "They are both too strong and have too much to lose."

"But I am worried about war down here," and he pointed on his globe to the Suez Canal.

It was only a few weeks later that Nasser seized the canal and several months later that war broke out among England, France, Israel, and Egypt over the canal.

Regarding major war, Mr. Truman has always been consistent. He has told me and others that the United States and Russia have too much to lose to go to war, that the Russian people want peace, and that even if their leaders in the Kremlin want war, which he doubts, it would be difficult to get the Russian people into a war unless they were invaded.

Last week in Independence, he repeated these views with characteristic pithy vigor.

"An all-out war is more remote now than at any time since World War II. What we have is a peace based on fear—a fear of world destruction. It's so damn dangerous now it's safe."

That's Harry Truman at his vigorous best on his eightieth birthday.

Note—Some people labor under the impression that my No. 1 row with HST was over his daughter's singing. Nothing could be further from the truth. Having a daughter of my own, I completely understand Mr. Truman's paternal feelings. What teed Mr. Truman off against me was my criticism of Gen. Harry Vaughan, his military aide, and particularly Vaughan's acceptance of a medal from anti-American dictator Peron of Argentina. Congress refused to permit Vaughan to accept the medal. However, Mr. Truman, always loyal to his close friends, blasted off about me at a dinner honoring Vaughan at the Army-Navy club.

"---an' Stop Saying, 'That Ain't Hay!'"

The World Today

National Big Daddy Image of LBJ

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Shortly before his death President John F. Kennedy said he would take on his Republican opponent in the 1964 presidential race in television-radio debates. So far President Johnson has declined to say what he will do. It would have been easy for Kennedy, an old hand at it after his four debates with Vice President Richard M. Nixon in 1960. All of them did Kennedy good. And no Republican then in sight seemed likely to outdo him.

Johnson, with no experience in this kind of national encounter, gave this answer when asked about the debates at his Dec. 18 news conference.

"I will make those decisions at the time I am the nominee and in the light of the circumstances existing then. For the present, I am not going to discuss any political matter."

He didn't stick to that absolutely. He has made some cracks about Republicans and practically everything he has done since has been a political matter in the sense of building up his voter appeal.

He's been so homey and down-to-earth and folksy and reassuring to so many people in so many fields of interest that he has created a picture of himself as a sort of national big daddy.

The public opinion polls indicate the people are eating it up. If he doesn't overdo it, no Republican candidate could possibly match him in public exposure since he's President and everything he does is news.

That raises the first question: Why, with this advantage, should he let an opponent, in one leap before the cameras and with one turn of the dial, enjoy the same spotlight with and perhaps do him damage by outdoing him?

The same question could have been asked about Kennedy, although not in 1960. Then Nixon was the national figure who had spent eight years as vice president building himself up. Kennedy was just a senator from Massachusetts.

But after the very first debate, in which many felt he had bettered Nixon, he had to be equated in the public mind with the vice president.

As President, by debating a Republican contender, Kennedy would have been granting his opponent the same kind of exposure he himself got in his set to with Nixon. Why do it, then?

One guess is that Kennedy felt supremely confident about handling anyone the Republicans sent against him. If only for lack of experience, Johnson can't be sure he'd make out as well.

Through the fresh insights they'd get into Johnson and his opposition arguing the issues in 1964, voters would be able to reach more intelligent decisions about both of them.

But Johnson, like Kennedy, is a politician with a race to win and the main problem of how. That would be the primary consideration for both. That's a practical reason for Johnson wanting to wait till he sees what he's up against.

By campaign time Johnson may decide, danger or not, the debates are necessary.

For instance: To restore public acceptance through serious discussion if by then he has made some goofs in the presidency or suffered disfavor by too much running around and too much talking off the cuff.

Besides, he is thin-skinned. If he says he won't debate, the Republicans no doubt would try to needle him into changing his mind by attacking his reluctance to face his opponent.

There's a good reason now to think he might welcome the debates. He seemed a little uncertain of himself, starting out, but he seems to be developing so much confidence in his voter appeal that he is now unpredictable from hour to hour.

Wife In a Mood? Then Sweet-Talk Her Out of It

By Ruth Millett
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Don't look now, gentlemen, but it may not be a man's world much longer.

A judge has refused to grant a legal separation to a man merely because his wife calls him names and slaps him around. And here's the judge's explanation for his decision: "Wives are creatures of mood. If they get into a mood, it is up to the husband to get them out of it. Tell them they're wonderful and make a fuss over them."

Forever and ever, that's the way wives have been handling their husbands because, forever and ever, women have been taught that men are creatures of mood, who have to be babied, sweet-talked, admired, coaxed and flattered.

But men have never been taught to handle a woman in such fashion. The accepted masculine response to a woman's moods and unreasonable behavior is to walk out of the house, slam the door majestically, and stay out until the wife has learned her lesson. Either that, or to look her in the eye and say, "You're behaving like a child." The men have gotten away with indulging their own moods, while expecting their wives to be "more adult" in controlling their own.

Now a judge says a husband can't just walk out on his wife and call it quits because she isn't always sweetly reasonable and easy to live with. He acknowledges that women, being human, are creatures of mood, too, and he goes even a step further to say it's a husband's duty to sweet-talk his wife into behaving herself.

That's the kind of equality women could get used to in a hurry—even though it is the kind men are going to be reluctant to grant.

Professors Provide Action

Christian Talk Not Enough In Battle On Civil Rights

By JAMES CLOTFELTER
Of The Durham (N.C.) Herald
CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Why have white professors and students in this university area risked jobs and social ostracism to demonstrate and go to jail for Negroes?

"It is not enough for the Christian to say there must be justice," says a Duke University professor of religion. "An act of some sort is necessary to give some substance to your words."

The professor, Dr. Robert T. Osborn, 37, who has a wife and three children, was convicted of trespass for joining Negroes in a sit-in at a Chapel Hill restaurant. He was given 90 days on the roads in March and is appealing the sentence.

Osborn is one of four white men who told in separate interviews why they made the transition from "over coffee liberals" who talk about equal rights to activists who try to do something about them.

He said he had found the Christian Church in the South usually unable "to change the moral climate"—and universities "generally ineffective in influencing the basic beliefs of students."

Osborn, an ordained Methodist minister, said years as a mere talker "have confirmed for me a basic theological insight: The Word is never effective until it becomes flesh, becomes action."

Another white man who joined Negroes in effort to complete desegregation of Chapel Hill is William H. Wynn, 35. An assistant professor of psychology at the University of North Carolina, he also is appealing a 90-day sentence for the same sit-in.

Wynn is married and has a year-old daughter. "I felt called upon to do something," he explained in describing his participation in a sit-in.

Wynn said his views on race stem from his "fundamentalist religious background—the Church of Christ, which taught that men should do what they can to establish justice on earth. The individual is called upon to question and to search for justice."

John Dunne, 21, and Pat Cusick, 32, are two white activists who quit the University of North Carolina last year. Both are now serving 12-month prison terms. They pleaded no contest to charges of resisting arrest, trespass, and street blocking during February demonstrations. They were sentenced by a Superior Court judge on April 24.

Dunne and Cusick recently participated in a week-long fast protesting refusal of city fathers to adopt a free public accommodations ordinance.

"I had the feeling that I was not free; that I could not face a Negro without him seeing white instead of seeing me," Dunne said.

Dunne, a native of Cleveland, Ohio, and a graduate of Choate prep school, won a full tuition scholarship to the University of North Carolina. He dropped from the university as a senior to work with the Chapel Hill Freedom Committee and led mass demonstrations which resulted in the arrest of more than 200 persons.

Dunne said the moral dilemma of trying to decide on the racial issue is similar to a man drowning. "If a man is drowning and you have a chance of saving him and you don't, then you may not be found guilty in court, but you are morally guilty of killing him."

"Segregation is morally evil," Cusick said. "If a person cooperates with evil, it is an immoral act."

Cusick was born and raised in Gadsden, Ala. He said his grandfather is reputed to have founded the Ku Klux Klan in Etowah County, Ala., after the Civil War.

As a teen-ager, he attended a Catholic boarding school in Alabama which taught him that segregation was morally wrong. Then he "led arguments against the faculty in trying to prove it was morally right."

In December, while serving a 30-day sentence growing out of a demonstration, Cusick fasted two weeks when he was placed in a segregated prison camp. "I, as a person," he said, "can not cooperate with segregation in any way, whether it be in Chapel Hill or in a white prison camp."

Imported Reindeer
When Alaska's wild caribou had been virtually depleted, the U.S. government imported reindeer from Siberia to found a herd as a continuing source of meat and hide for the Eskimos.

THE DOCTOR SAYS
Operation for Hernia Not Always Successful

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.,
Newspaper Enterprise Association

Q—About three years ago I was operated on for a hernia. About six months ago it came back and I have been wearing a truss ever since. I am 60 and don't want another operation if I can help it.

A—Every surgeon in repairing a rupture tries to insure that it will not recur but this sometimes happens even with the best of surgery. The only danger involved with this type of hernia is strangulation—the locking of a segment of intestine in the hernial sac. If your hernia slips back in place easily when you lie on your back and if your truss keeps it from protruding when you are up, there is no harm in treating it in this way.

Q—Is a yeast infection contagious? What would the symptoms be? My doctor says I have a yeast diarrhea. Does this kind of infection come back after it is cured?

A—There are at least 15 kinds of yeast or fungus that may cause disease in man, but none of these diseases primarily attacks the intestines. Some attack the skin; others the lungs or the brain. Diarrhea could be a complication of a number of fungus diseases. They vary widely in the degree of contagiousness.

Q—A friend of mine has blood in his urine all the time. Is this because he is an alcoholic?

A—This is always a sign of serious trouble. Alcohol is not a cause but your friend should have a doctor find the true cause without delay.

Q—I read where a woman was nearly blind and she took Hetrazan and was cured. Where could I get this drug?

A—It is true that diethylcarbamazine (Hetrazan) can save the sight of a person whose eye involvement is due to the tropical parasitic disease, onchocerciasis. It would be of no value in persons with any other kind of eye disease.

Q—My nephew, 52, had a blood tumor removed about seven years ago. It seems to be coming back. What should he do now?

A—Your nephew should be examined to determine whether he is having a return of the same condition or whether a different kind of tumor is developing. In either case it would seem wise to have it removed completely.

CARPET TALK

by Carroll Hobson

Color . . . The Logical Starting Point

There are two very good reasons for starting with color when you shop for a carpet or rug. First, until you've found a carpet that you really LIKE, you're still just looking! Color is always important in your home . . . but never more so than when it's seen in a big area, such as the floor. And, of course, you want color to do "the most" for each room, decoratively speaking.

Second, the color of your carpet should be practical. No other item of home furnishings gets walked on every day—and you don't want the quick appearance of soil to mar the beauty of your carpet or rug. But that doesn't mean that you have to resign yourself to dull, nondescript colors! Just take a look!

All of the wonderful carpet colors available today can be found in one of just seven basic color groups or "color families": the blues, the greens, the golds, the reds, the grays, the beiges and the browns.

Within each color family there are many variations from light to dark, in solid colors or subtle mixtures of hues. This wide variety makes it easy for you to choose the exact color you like—and the version that would be most practical. If you like colors—and want to use them in a heavy traffic area where soiling might be a problem—you'll find styles with a two tone effect.

So pick the color family you really want to live with—and start looking for all the interesting variations in that particular group.

Following much acclaim for her guest appearances on NBC-TV's "That Was the Week That Was," versatile young actress Phyllis Newman will now be a regular on "TW3" for the rest of this season and for next. In addition to guesting on the weekly satirical revue, Miss Newman has acted in several Broadway productions and has been a frequent television guest.

Says Show Not All In Satire Vein

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
 AP Television-Radio Writer
 NEW YORK (AP)—"Nobody ever said we'd have a 30 minute satire show every week," said Leland Hayward, almost angrily. "That Was the Week That Was" is simply a program that makes comments on what's going on in the world."
 Hayward is executive producer and owner of the Friday night NBC show.
 "I think that, all things considered, we're doing pretty well, although I'm never happy with it and am always trying to make it better," the producer continued. "But all satire—never."

"We're always in a rush," he said, "and much of the time we have to cut, rewrite, even add new material between the dress rehearsal and the time we're on the air. Occasionally, something that looked okay in the dress rehearsal bothers us when it goes on the air—that business about Eisenhower, for instance, should never have been in."

He referred to mimicking the ex-president in a way that affronted some viewers.

Hayward said that he is spending "just about all my time" on the show—much more than he planned—and currently is busy trying out new people.

BUCKING NEW LINE—OF WORK—Jim Brown, the rampaging Cleveland Browns fullback, tackles a new career—acting—in the new film "Rio Conchos." He plays the role of a cavalryman riding through the Old West to put down a plot of ex-Confederate soldiers to overthrow the government. Richard Boone and Stuart Whitman are the film's costars.

Oliva Makes Believer Of Bill Rigney

ST. PAUL—MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Baseball men are starting to call Tony Oliva a left-handed hitting Henry Aaron, and based on the Cuban rookie's auspicious debut in the American League the assessment may be accurate.

Oliva made a believer out of Los Angeles Manager Bill Rigney by flailing Angel pitching for six hits in nine times at bat in a two-game series.

"He's a heckuva hitter, isn't he," Rigney said after Oliva collected four hits, including a grand-slam home run and a solo homer and drove in six runs in Minnesota 9-1 victory over the Angels Thursday.

"I never knew anybody that hit .500," Rigney added when asked if he ever saw a rookie slap a baseball like Oliva. "I haven't noticed too much he can't hit. It looks like we'll have to throw him spitters and hope we drown him."

Oliva is a gangling kid, 6-foot-1 and 175 pounds. Yet he hits with remarkable power, like Aaron, Milwaukee's great hitter.

He's a spray hitter who hits the ball where it's pitched. His grand slam off left-hander Jack Spring—his first major league slam—was pulled to right field. His solo clout, off right-hander Paul Foytack, was poked over the left field fence.

He also notched two singles to raise his average to .427. In his last seven games, Oliva has collected 18 hits in 31 times at bat for a .581 clip. Over-all he has seven homers and 18 RBI.

Tony is an uncomplicated 22-year-old to whom the game of baseball is a simple thing. He just hits the ball. He doesn't care who the pitcher is; he seldom even knows the name of the pitcher he is batting against.

"I no care who pitcher is or what he throw," Oliva says in his broken English. That reflects his happy attitude.

Twins' Manager Sam Mele says the secret of Oliva's success lies in the fact that he waits until the last split second on a pitch, and he hits the ball where it's pitched.

Vote for All-Star Team In Mid-June

NEW YORK (AP)—Players, managers and coaches will vote for the major league All-Star teams in mid-June.

Commissioner Ford Frick announced selection plans Thursday for the game that will be held July 7 at New York's Shea Stadium, the majors' newest park.

Walt Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers will head the National League team while Yogi Berra of the New York Yankees or Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox will manage the American team.

'No Divorce Possible'

Religion And Art Married, Church Architects Agree

By RAYMOND HOLBROOK

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Each year, America spends billions of dollars for new churches, the modern design of which causes tradition-minded worshippers to wonder if the architects and the clergy have had a parting of the ways.

Those doubters would have found their answer recently in Dallas where more than 1,000 of the nation's leading church architects and religious leaders demonstrated that there is a unity of purpose and "a marriage between art and religion."

The National Conference on Church Architecture reflected agreement that today's often startling structures can mean as much to 20th century man as the massive Gothic forms of the Middle Ages.

"Old art and modern art have the same thing in common—they are each in step with their times," said the Rev. Roger Ortmayer, professor of Christianity and the arts at Southern Methodist University's Perkins School of Theology.

"Religion and art are married—a marriage made in heaven and no divorce is possible," Dr. Ortmayer said. "But heavy-handed tradition is the mother-in-law."

"For a work of architecture to be understood by common people, by the man in the street it must cling to the symbolic shape that gives it character, although it may be dressed according to the fashion of the moment. Style changes but character must stand," said Dr. Felix Candela, distinguished Mexican architect.

All good art becomes in a sense religious even though it is not ecclesiastical, Edward Anders Sovik, a Northfield, Minn., architect told the conference.

The Minnesota architect said that function alone is not enough—"if it were we might well complete the destruction of the Parthenon because it has no further function at all."

As for the symbolists, he said "it doesn't take an artist to make a cross-shaped building, a groined vault signifying hands joined in prayer, indirect lighting for mystery or symbols of the Apostles, and they don't make good architecture."

"When he is certain that architecture is faithful to the truth his creation will indeed move people," he said. "It will have the direction and vitality of life."

Probing Crash Of C123 Which Claimed 4 Lives

FORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force is investigating the crash of a C123 which claimed the lives of four men and injured four others Thursday.

The aircraft crashed during routine touch and go landings less than 1,000 yards from U.S. Highway 98 at nearby Hurlburt Air Force Field. The plane was at the Gen. Jimmy Doolittle Field, a small runway used by Doolittle while training for his raid on Tokyo in World War II.

Dead are: Airman I.C. William T. Hansley Jr., 33, Sea Shore Village, Fla.; Staff Sgt. Malcolm R. Cardwell, 29, Mary Esther, Fla.; Airman I.C. Jeff N. Cecil, 31, Fort Walton Beach, Fla.; and Tech Sgt. Cleo C. White, 44, Eglin Air Force Base, Fla.

Brazilian 'Violeros' Back After Political Songfests

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ RECIFE, Brazil (AP)—The "violeros" are back to the old standby ballads after a brief fling at political songfests.

As in the olden days of their supposed colonial origin, the violeros, or traveling singers, once again are spinning simple yarns of village life—extolling some heroic deed, or sneaking in a bit of ripe gossip for whatever cruzeiros the hat will catch from street audiences. As recently as the pretransistor era, the violeros linked remote villages to neighboring current events.

But no more of this "give us land and bread—or death" routine in song. Or ballads about how great things will be after Arraes and Juliano take over. The people who paid for that kind of music—friends of Gov. Miguel Arraes and the Castroite peasant leader Francisco Juliano—have been taken away. The violeros, like the rest of northeast Brazil's underprivileged millions, are about back where they were before the great reform crusade began here some five years ago.

There were only a few tears among them when the effort collapsed with the ouster of the Joao Goulart government last month. There was little to show for it: a few graves, some catchy slogans, the fading memory of a few extra cruzeiros spent in lively big towns like Natal and Recife.

There were even fewer cheers

ing prosperity has increased the labor force from another source. Attractive jobs are opening up now and luring those who aren't interested at other times. They enter the labor force or drop out as the kind of work they like or can handle expands or declines in their communities.

Modern home appliances have made it possible for more married women to handle both housework and outside jobs.

Also complicating any assessment of the nation's labor picture is a growing amount of moonlighting in recent years. This is the holding of more than one job by the same person. Often this is to gain much needed additional income. But often it is to lift the family into a higher status, to provide desired gadgets or more expensive vacations.

But in recent months a grow-for the new leaders and their new order.

The indifference is a product of old disenchantments. It seems there've been as many promises as there are people in this poor corner of Brazil's northeast.

The eight state area is plagued by overpopulation, among other ills. U.S. agronomists estimate that under the most advanced farming techniques, the northeast's productive acreage can support less than half its present 22 million. Although desperation drives out an estimated 100,000 every year, an explosive birth rate increases population 700,000.

There have been large-scale government efforts, with some U.S. assistance, to improve the situation but in many cases these efforts have been sidetracked or distorted by political machination and horseplay.

A continuing drabness has bred deep-rooted apathy.

Take Coque as an example. Two years ago when this reporter first visited this stomach-wrenching Recife slum, there was a hint of pride in the air over the opening of Yuri Gagarin School No. 15, named in honor of the Soviet cosmonaut.

When the far-leftist regime of Miguel Arraes came to power for 16 months ago amid a flood of utopian promises, the school was converted into a banner-bedecked center of the Popular Cultural Movement, an alleged front for Marxist operations.

After a heavy rain the roof caved in and the center was closed.

How about Brazil's new government and its pledges to help the little man?

"We've waited this long," Claudio Oliveira, a carpenter, says. "We can wait some more to see what comes out of it."

This just about sums up the grassroots view of the new government in this ancient port of 800,000.

At a higher level, indifference turns to cautious hope. In the business community there is some optimism.

Ben Bella Gets Long Term Loan From Nikita

MOSCOW (AP)—Algerian President Ahmed Ben Bella left the Soviet Union today with a long-term loan of $126.5 million, part of it to be used for construction of a 300,000-ton steel mill of Soviet design and equipment.

Premier Khrushchev and his family were bound for Egypt in another move to bolster Soviet influence in North Africa.

Ben Bella left for Bulgaria after a 13-day state visit to the Soviet Union. He also will visit Czechoslovakia.

As Ben Bella exchanged farewell toasts with Soviet leaders in Moscow Wednesday night, Khrushchev boarded the new Soviet motorship Armenia at Yalta. Making his first visit to Africa, he will arrive in Alexandria Saturday to spend two or three weeks as the guest of President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Dodgers Lose 2-1 To Colts; Deny Podres Trade Report

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Are officials of the Los Angeles Dodgers beginning to be concerned with the sputtering start made by the defending world champions?

That seemed to be the big question today following two developments—still another loss by the weak-hitting Dodgers, 2-1 to the Houston Colts Thursday night, and a trade report involving pitcher Johnny Podres.

Denied by the Dodgers, the report stated flatly that Colt officials had been offered Podres, who in his only appearance on April 25 was struck in the elbow by a Warren Spahn pitch and has been on the mound for only two innings this season.

"I know nothing whatsoever about it," said Dodger General Manager Bubba Bavasi. "I have not talked to anyone on the Houston club. There's absolutely nothing to it."

The loss to the Colts was the 13th in 22 games for the Dodgers and left them six games behind the National League leading San Francisco Giants. The Dodgers are in front of only the Colts and New York Mets.

In all, the Dodgers have scored only 73 runs and hit only 14 homers—eight by Frank Howard. Maury Wills, who collected four hits against the Colts for a .309 batting average, is the only regular hitting over .300. The team is batting .235, eighth in the league.

While the Dodgers were battling their problems, Tom Haller's two-run single in the eighth gave San Francisco a 7-6 edge over the Chicago Cubs, Clay Dalrymple's two-run homer started Philadelphia on the way to a 9-6 victory over Milwaukee, St. Louis defeated Pittsburgh 4-2 and the New York Mets nipped Cincinnati 3-2.

The Colts scored in the fifth on a single by Walt Bond, a double by Jim Wynn and Bob Aspromonte's sacrifice fly. Winning pitcher Bob Bruce led off the sixth with a single and came around with the clincher on a sacrifice and Al Spangler's single.

Dalrymple, hitless in 22 previous trips to the plate, hammered his homer off Hank Fischer following a single by John Herrnstein, snapping a 2-2 tie. The Phillies took it from there. Herrnstein had a double and two singles for the night. Art Mahaffey, tagged for homers by Joe Torre and Eddie Mathews, needed Jack Baldschun's relief help before getting the victory.

The Giants went into the eighth trailing the Cubs 6-5, but singles by Jesus Alou and Willie Mays—the third hit for each—set up Haller's game-winning single off Lindy McDaniel. Mays' three hits lifted his average to .479. Billy Williams went 4-for-5 for the Cubs, who pulled out to a 4-0 first inning lead, but couldn't hold it.

Weekend Fishing

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Fishing conditions are improving throughout Missouri, the Conservation Commission reported today, with some areas already producing big catches.

The trout fishing areas all are producing fair to good strings. Conditions by region:

Northwest—most rivers clearing and producing channel catfish and bluegills. Ponds dingy but fairly productive for black bass and bluegill.

Northeast—Streams dingy but producing channel catfish. Lakes and ponds in good condition and bass and bluegill hitting fair to good.

West central—Upper Osage murky, Pomme de Terre clear to dingy, Sac and South Grand clearing. Fair strings of rough fish being taken.

Central—Lower Osage clear and producing white bass and crappie. Gasconade, Big Nangua, Big Piney and Maries producing panfish.

East central—Meramec, Big River and Bourbeuse clearing. Panfish and channels biting fair to good.

Southeast—major streams clear and producing fair to good strings of goggle-eye, channels and panfish.

Ozark—Current, Jacks Fork and Eleven Point clear with goggle-eye the top catch.

Southwest—James murky to clear with carp and goggle-eye biting well. Elk River clear and yielding fair takes of Channel cat, goggle-eye and perch.

Lakes: Bull Shoals—clear with crappie fishing fair to good and black bass beginning to hit top-water lures.

Table Rock—clear. White Bass fishing fair to good, crappie good and black bass fair.

Taneycomo—clear and trout fishing good to excellent.

Norfolk—clear with crappie fishing fair and channel cat fair to good.

Clearwater—clearing. White bass, crappie and black bass hitting fair to good.

Wappello—clear. Crappie fishing good.

Pomme de Terre—clear. Black bass and crappie fishing good to excellent.

Lake of the Ozarks—main body murky but producing crappie and catfish. Main arms clearing to clear and producing black bass, crappie, some walleye and white bass.

Paho—murky. Black bass, channels and bluegill hitting fairly well.

Thousand Hills—clear to murky. Crappie fishing fair, black bass good.

Trimble—slightly dingy. Crappie fishing good, black bass fair.

Jacomo—clear with black bass and crappie fishing fair.

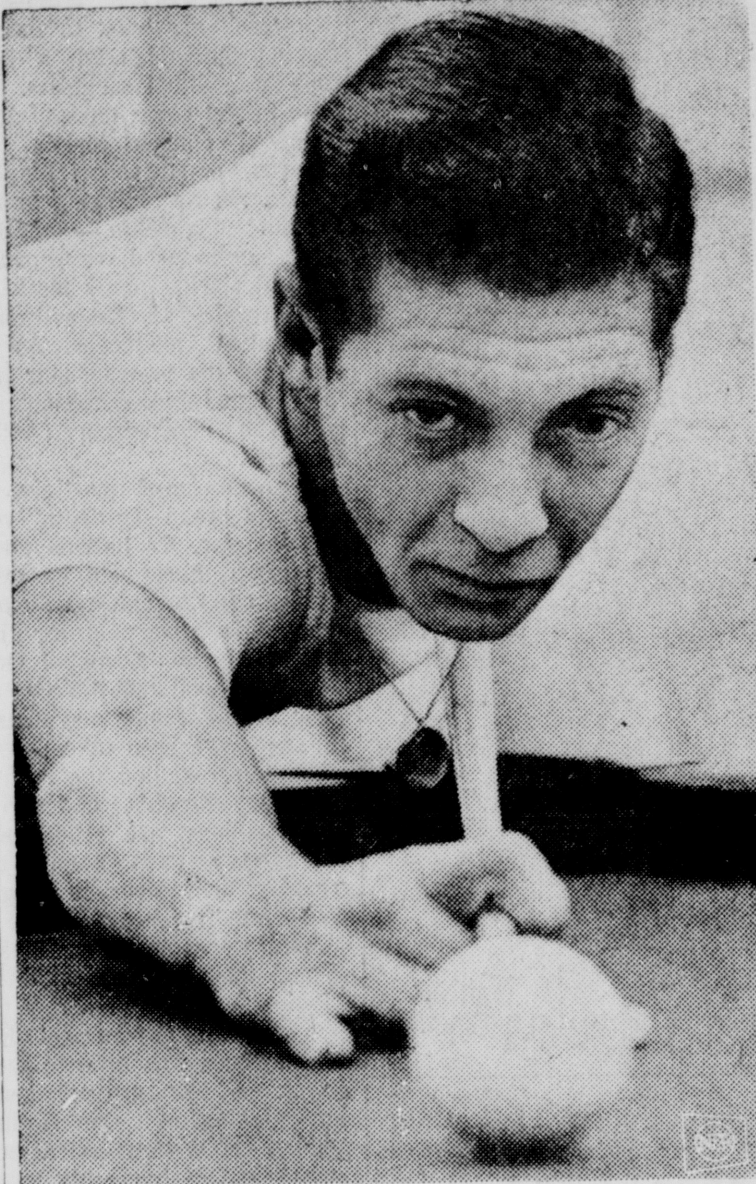

Montrose—muddy. Channels and bluegills biting well.

Hunnell—slightly dingy. Black bass and bluegill hitting fairly well.

Little Dixie—slightly dingy. Black bass hitting fairly well, channels good.

Duck Creek—clear with bluegill and Warmouth bass hitting fine.

Wrestle Royal Highlights Five-Event Mat Program

One of professional wrestling's most bruising events—the wrestle royal—will highlight a five-event mat program here Tuesday night.

Action in the key clash at Convention Hall will feature eight tough heavyweights, all scrambling to be the event's king of the hill.

Taking part will be Sonny Myers, Lee Henning, Steve Bolas, Harley Race, Tokyo Tom, Joe Gump, Baron Von Strauss and the powerful Stomper.

As an added incentive, each entrant will post $100 before the match, with the winner to take it all.

Special rules for this particular brand of ring roughing call for a contestant to be tossed over the top rope and onto the arena floor before he is eliminated.

Early favorites are the Stomper, Myers, Henning and Gump, all veteran wrestlers and all able to mix anybody in this style of rough and tumble. It's expected the 270-pound Stomper will be the key target because he's fairly dominated area mat ranks in the last several months.

Separate matches pit Myers-Stomper, Henning-Von Strauss, Race-Tokyo Tom, and Bolas-Gump.

AL Roundup

Castro Gives Twins Best All-Around Hitter In AL

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Credit Tony Oliva's mother and Fidel Castro for giving Minnesota the hottest all-around hitter in the American League today.

Oliva, the Twins' rookie right fielder, ranks shut in the league with a .427 batting average, 18 runs batted in and seven home runs following his onslaught against the Los Angeles Angels in the Twins' 9-1 victory Thursday.

He hammered two home runs, one of them a grand slam, rifled two singles and drove in six runs. The output gave him a .581 average in his last seven games.

The 23-year-old Cuban would not even be in the United States today, let alone in the AL spotlight, if Mrs. Oliva hadn't offered some sage advice three years ago.

Oliva, in the country for the first time, was homesick and telephoned his mother for advice.

"You can come back any time; it is your home," Mrs. Oliva said. "But if you come here, you may not get permission to go back to the United States."

Fidel Castro, of course, was dictating departures at the time. That cured Oliva's homesickness.

Three other games were played in the AL Thursday. New York knocked off Washington 9-6, Cleveland overpowered Baltimore 9-4 and Boston whipped Detroit 7-3.

Oliva smashed the grand slam, his first in the majors, in the sixth inning when the Twins exploded for five runs and wiped out a 1-1 tie. He singled in a run in the fifth.

The left-handed slugger's performance paved the way for Jim Kaat's third victory against one loss. Joe Adcock's second-inning home run was the only run off Kaat.

The Yankees got a tie-breaking single from Tom Tresh in the seventh and added two runs in the ninth for their victory over the Senators. New York tied the game 6-6 in the sixth when Bobby Richardson singled, stole second and scored on Hector Lopez' third hit of the night.

Dick Howser rapped three singles and knocked in four runs as Jim Grant won his second game for the Indians against two losses. Howser brought home two runs in the sixth and another two in the eighth.

Grant and Tito Francona contributed two-run homers to Cleveland's attack. Boog Powell drove across three of the Orioles' runs with a third-inning double and a single in the seventh.

A pair of two-run homers also helped Boston against the Tigers. Rookies Daiton Jones and Tony Conigliaro hit them, supporting Jack Lamabe's third victory without a defeat. Dick Stuart singled home the two deciding runs in the seventh.

Challenge Is For Today, Johnson Says

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—President Johnson has stated "our challenge—not tomorrow but today—is to accomplish objectives which have eluded mankind since the beginning of time."

In a speech prepared for delivery at Ohio University, Johnson said the nation must:

"Bring equal justice to all our citizens.

"Abolish human poverty, "Eradicate killing and crippling diseases, and lengthen the life span of man to 100 or 120 years.

"Eliminate illiteracy, "End open bias and active bigotry.

"And, above all else, help to bring about a day 'when nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more.'"

The visit to Athens was an interlude in a trip through Appalachia, Johnson's second such tour in 13 days, aimed principally at drumming up backing for his war on poverty program.

Off from the White House lawn by helicopter at 8:14 a.m., the President flew first to Cumberland, Md., for a speech in which he depicted the antipoverty program as a campaign of the continuing American Revolution.

From here Johnson flies on to visit six states, meeting the unemployed, visiting farmers and promoting the antipoverty drive. The Ohio University address carried on that effort, tying it in with the other goals which Johnson set for Americans.

Not in a day, not in a year will these goals be reached, Johnson said, "but if we begin the effort—if we approach the task with great enthusiasms and not with cynicisms — these achievements will be the glory of your generation."

He said there is in front of young people today the promise of a greater tomorrow.

"It's a tomorrow that is brighter than yesterday and more challenging than today," he said.

"This is not a time for timid spirits and trembling spirits.

"It is a time for reaching out—to extend the boundaries of the brain and widen the dimensions of knowledge.

"We have it within our power to find the best of solutions to the worst of problems. We intend to do just that.

"Let your young hearts armed with new weapons join an old battle against ancient enemies—the enemies of poverty and disease, illiteracy and strife."

Johnson announced that a contract has been signed by the Area Redevelopment Administration to establish a regional development institute at Ohio University. This, he said, will make the university the focal point of economic development for the southeastern Ohio area.

He also announced that the Lorain-Elyria area of Ohio is being removed today from the list of industrial areas in the state with substantial unemployment. This, he said, leaves only one Ohio area in this category compared with 10 out of 11 industrial areas in 1961.

Johnson noted that Ohio University, which is celebrating its 160th anniversary year was the first institution of higher learning to be established west of the Alleghenies.

Reported Increased Uneasiness In Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Newly arrived refugees reported increasing uneasiness in Communist Cuba today.

"The atmosphere in Cuba is one of rebellion," said Jose Garcia Mora of Oriente Province, who fled by rowboat and was picked up by a vessel that brought him and eight companions to Miami.

"There are increasing rumors that something big is going to happen in May."

The Revolutionary Junta renewed a promise that its men will land in Cuba by May 20 to join guerrillas already there.

McCormick Draws Two Prison Terms

Twenty-year-old Gerald D. McCormick, Route 3, Sedalia, was sentenced in Circuit Court Thursday afternoon to prison terms of six years and two years respectively on charges of first degree robbery and escaping jail. The terms will run concurrently.

Circuit Judge Frank W. Hayes assessed the sentences against McCormick after the youth appeared in court and withdrew previous pleas of innocence and entered a guilty plea. McCormick was granted credit for 161 days previously spent in confinement. The 161-day period includes time in the Pettis County jail and while undergoing psychiatric examination recently at State Hospital No. 1 in Fulton.

McCormick robbed a 17-year-old attendant on Aug. 21, 1963, at the Surf Club, west of Sedalia, taking $11 in cash plus a large quantity of cigarettes and candy bars. He brandished a .22 cal. rifle in pulling the robbery.

The McCormick youth was captured, however, by Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax in less than an hour and a half and when arrested by Fairfax and Deputy Jack Coutts the youth was still in possession of the money, cigarettes and candy. The officers said he also admitted a previous burglary of the Natkin Engineering Company in Sedalia at the time of his apprehension.

McCormick was bound over to Circuit Court and while awaiting trial chipped a large hole in the north wall of the time-weakened Pettis County jail and

Weeds, Mains Discussed

Park Maintenance Review by Board

Park maintenance, weeds and water mains came under discussion at the regular meeting of the Sedalia Board of Public Works at the Water Department offices Wednesday night.

The discussion on park maintenance was prompted by a story that appeared in The Sedalia Democrat Wednesday, in which it was reported a group of young people had abandoned the idea of having a picnic at Covered Bridge Park because the park was littered with debris.

An investigation into the matter revealed that at the time the group must have inspected the park, apparently more than one week ago, the Water Department, which owns and operates the park, had not completed the annual spring clean-up job. This has now been done and the park is in fair condition.

The board fully accepted the responsibility for maintaining the park as a public ground, and discussed the problem of maintaining the cleanliness necessary if the park is to be used by the public. It was brought out that the park is cleaned up daily by Water Department maintenance men from the pumping station just across the road, and that each day the men pick up barrels of litter and debris left by picnickers and persons who enter the park after it is "closed" at night.

Bill Bunn, board member, went so far as to say he would go along with the employment of an additional man just to keep the park up, if this should become necessary. He explained, "If we are going to maintain the park for the public, we

Small Black Dog Sought By Police

Chief of Police William Miller and poundmaster Earl Paxton today appealed to the public in an effort to contact the owner of a small black dog which bit 11-year-old Linda Becker, C-58 Saturn, outside of Bing's No. 1 Supermarket about 3 p.m. Wednesday afternoon.

"We want to stress that we don't want to arrest the owner or destroy the dog," Miller said. "We just want to find out if the animal had been vaccinated for rabies. Otherwise the little girl will probably be required to take a series of rabies shots, which are expensive as well as painful."

Linda's mother, Mrs. Thomas Becker, reported the dog bite to police. The girl was treated at Bothwell Hospital by Dr. Carl Siegel and released after treatment. She was bitten on the hand.

Miller said police investigation indicated the dog's owner was a woman, about 37 years of age, average build with black hair. She was presumed to have filled or refilled a prescription at the pharmacy at the super-

Johnson Exhorts Citizens To Join Antipoverty Army

On Barnstorming Tour Through Appalachia

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — President Johnson, barnstorming through Appalachia, jabbed at a couple of Republican presidential possibilities Thursday, saying they would turn the "American dream into a nightmare."

In remarks to a Knoxville audience, Johnson aimed one jibe directly at Sen. Barry Goldwater, though without naming the Arizonan who aspires to the Republican presidential nomination.

Johnson, assailing "men of timid faith and narrow vision," said that if such people had their way, "the 'for sale' signs would be on TVA this hour."

It was Goldwater who once said a "for sale" sign should be posted on the Appalachia properties of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Johnson was in top evangelistic form as he swung through Maryland, West Virginia, Ohio and Tennessee en route to North Carolina and Georgia. He pounded on public rostrums and whacked his fists together exhorting thousands of fellow citizens to join the antipoverty army.

In his Knoxville text, Johnson cited GOP charges that his proposed war on poverty is a "cruel hoax." Johnson did not identify the author of this charge but aides traveling with him said he referred to former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Johnson said that 30 years ago some people called the Social Security plan a cruel hoax.

"I do not believe you want men of timid faith and narrow vision to speak for the conscience of America," Johnson said.

"I do not believe you want to entrust the American dream to men who would turn it into a nightmare."

Knoxville is in the heart of TVA country and Johnson took the opportunity to praise TVA as "the world's example of how government and free enterprise can work hand-in-hand to help people."

Hospitality Wins Japanese Friends

THREE YOUNG Japanese good will ambassadors on a motor tour of the United States found hospitality in Sedalia Wednesday night and Thursday unlike any they have encountered since they set out from Los Angeles April 26.

The trio, two students of Nihon University in Tokyo and the other of the Tokyodo Shoes & Bags Co., is calling on 18 governors on behalf of the governor of Tokyo. They carry with them a special envelope addressed to each of the governors, including Gov. John M. Dalton of Missouri. They were scheduled to visit the state capital this afternoon, however, Gov. Dalton is understood to be on a tour in Europe all this week, and Lt. Gov. Hilary Bush is to receive them.

The envelopes contain special greetings from the Japanese people and the message calls for continued good relations and understanding between the two nations.

Thinjiro Okada, 26, a graduate of Nihon University, is in charge of the good will force composed of Youichi Saito and Hiroshi Yamazaki, both 21.

Okada speaks some English and was apologetic for his lack of ability to make himself thoroughly understood and fully explain details of the trio's trip. But all three were more at ease when told they were speaking better English than we could speak Japanese.

They arrived in Los Angeles by air April 23 after a big send-off by the Japanese press and were interviewed by three newsmen during their three day stay in the City of Angels, but en-

Three Railroads Picketed

Brief Strikes On Rail Lines

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Firemen engaged in brief strikes against three railroads Thursday—the day the rail lines began to eliminate hundreds of firemen's jobs under the ruling of an arbitration board.

Pickets appeared at the Pennsylvania Railroad's Conaway, Pa., yards—the world's largest—at dawn, but they left shortly after noon.

Firemen struck at 12:01 a.m.—the effective hour of the job cutback—against two important Illinois switching lines, the Toledo, Peoria & Western Railroad—TPW—and the Peoria & Pekin Union Railway—PPU.

But, slightly more than 10 hours later, R. J. Strand, Peoria district general chairman of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, put an end to the stoppage. He acted after he had received a call from union chiefs in Washington.

Operations quickly began a return to normal.

The arbitration board set up by Congress last year ruled that the railroads could eliminate unneeded firemen on diesel locomotives in yard and freight service.

Under the ruling: Men with less than two years seniority could be culled out Thursday with severance pay. Those with 2 to 10 years seniority must be offered similar jobs at comparable pay. Men with more than 10 years seniority cannot be removed.

Under the arbitration blueprint, the immediate reductions plus death, resignation and retirement are expected eventually to wipe out the jobs of 30,000 firemen.

Strand said the firemen went out in Illinois because the rail lines started abolishing jobs before a meeting of the arbitration board, scheduled for Washington on Thursday, to make interpretations of its award.

A spokesman for President H. E. Gilbert of the locomotive brotherhood said the Pennsylvania Railroad had "abolished all but 10 per cent of the jobs," and had eliminated jobs of men with more than 10 years seniority in violation of the award. A union spokesman had estimated that the cutback Thursday would abolish about 3,000 jobs.

44 Persons Killed In Plane Crash

CONCORD, Calif. (AP)—Forty-four persons perished Thursday in a Pacific Airlines plane crash and explosion so violent that only small pieces of wreckage remained.

The twin-engine airliner from Reno plunged nosefirst into a gently rolling pasture 40 miles east of its destination, San Francisco.

It carried three crew personnel and 41 other persons including two Federal Aviation Agency employees.

Silver dollars—taken of Nevada gambling—and an open Bible were sprinkled through the debris.

Federal officials tried to piece together the cause of the crash from the wreckage, a garbled radio transmission, a reported puff of smoke from an engine of the Fairchild F27 turboprop and accounts that the plane was flying unusually low.

The impact area is about 15 miles southeast of Concord in Contra Costa County.

Rancher Gordon Rassmussen said he saw the plane coming in and that it "faltered, there was a puff of smoke and it crashed a mile away from my ranch."

Mrs. Richard C. Collins, said, "There was a big explosion. I'm not sure if it was an impact or just before." Her husband said the plane could have crashed into the 2,000-population San Ramon Village had it cleared the hill into which it plunged.

Thirty-three passengers got on Pacific's Flight 773 at Reno and 10 more got on at Stockton for the 26-minute flight to San Francisco, filling the plane to capacity.

Two Reno passengers debarbed at Stockton.

An FAA spokesman said that shortly after a routine message from the plane, the pilot tried to message the FAA again.

"But the transmission was garbled. It didn't sound natural. It could have been the pilot or copilot trying to tell us something," the official said.

Moving to American Engineering Plant

Trailer Firm Expands to New Site

The Classic Trailer Manufacturing Company, a subsidiary of Reinhart-Welch, Inc., in business since last September in the basement of the Reinhart-Welch building on South Highway 65, will move to the American Engineering building this weekend.

The company, makes pickup truck coaches—eight and a half and ten and a half foot lengths—and trailer campers, 14 and 18 foot self contained trailers. Also pickup truck covers are custom made by the firm.

The new building, 50 by 200 feet with 10,000 square feet of space, will have two assembly lines down the center with the stock material between the lines and machinery on the north side.

In another smaller building will be the welding shop, 24 by 100 feet with 2,400 square feet of space including the offices. The large office is carpeted with small ceramic beige tile walls and paneling.

There are 15 people working in the present Reinhart-Welch building, but when the operation hits full swing in the new building, Reinhart said, we expect to have about 50 people employed in the large building and seven or eight in the welding shop.

The buildings are on a plot 310 by 275 feet, and there is room for further expansion.

It was after Reinhart came back from World War II that he started a business in sales of refrigeration equipment and about ten years ago sold an interest to John W. Welch. The firm was then located in the old Alquist Bakery building on South Ohio. They later bought the hardware store on Highway 65 South, and bought the building where they now have a warehouse, sales store, office and manufacturing department.

Since the air conditioning and refrigeration items took so much of the time, along with manufacturing they had started, Reinhart and Welch went out of the hardware business and sold their store building at Tenth and South Limit (now T&G Motors).

At the present time they are turning out three trailer campers a week, and are unable to meet demands. When they move into the new place they expect to turn out two units a day, and also turn out two 10½ and two 8½ pickup coaches and four tops a day.

The frame work is wood cut and put together by one group of men, then the aluminum covers are installed by another group. Dick Pophaim is the shop superintendent and A. C. Mayfield is foreman of the sheet metal shop.

Reinhart had the idea for manufacturing pickup coaches and trailer campers for about four years, but started up only last September.

The trailer campers are beautiful inside with complete accommodations, sink, water tank, gas stove, built-ins, everything to make the camper or traveler feel right at home.

They also are manufacturing walk-in coolers and walk-in freezers. Since this was something they were selling they found that none were being manufactured in the midwest and that they had to be shipped great distances. They also are manufacturing salad and pie cases for restaurants and hotels and which eventually will have national distribution. They are setting up to manufacture ready packed ice cubes, too.

In speaking of the pick-up coaches and trailer campers, Reinhart said the firm will modernize and redesign the units every year like cars, building different models, and will get the models ready for different shows which are held between Feb. 15 and March 15 each year.

"GOOD WILL AMBASSADORS" — Three Japanese good will ambassadors look over the map painted on the hood of their vehicle during a stop-over in Sedalia Wednesday night. They are touring the United States to deliver special messages to 18 governors, including Missouri's Gov. John M. Dalton, in behalf of the governor of Tokyo. They are (from left to right): Thinjiro Okada, Hiroshi Yamazaki and Youichi Saito. (Democrat-Capital photo)

They arrived in Los Angeles by air April 23 after a big send-off by the Japanese press and were interviewed by three newsmen during their three day stay in the City of Angels, but encountered only one newsman between Los Angeles and Sedalia. They received no story from that one. As result, the boys appeared somewhat disappointed in the absence of press clippings to send home.

Their route to Sedalia took them through Las Vegas, Denver and Kansas City. Okada explained that they were not particularly looking for any publicity—their mission: to call on 18 governors and return home after delivering the messages.

What's become of May Day?

What's happened to the Maypole dance and to her highness, the Queen of the May?

What has happened is that May Day and its delightful rituals have, along with other splendid American traditions, succumbed to the rush and crush of space age living.

It is a pity. Those of us ancient enough to remember the gay and graceful Maypole dance, with the pretty girls in their pretty yellow dresses weaving intricate patterns with the long, colorful streamers that fluttered from the top of the stately Maypole — those of us who are that old can tell the youngsters they just don't know what they are missing.

The May Day ceremonies were more than mere rites. They heralded the end of the snows of winter and the bluster of early spring and saluted the softness and the leafy promise of approaching summer.

Here and there, May Day still is celebrated with Maypole dances and the gracious custom of children taking little baskets of spring flowers to their friends.

But a busy society has largely turned away from taking the time and trouble to acknowledge the arrival of a new season that brings new crops, new vegetation, new hope.

Perhaps it is too hard to find a sponsor for things as intangible as friendship, gratitude and hope.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Hard to Beat Pork Barrel Dispenser

(Editor's Note: The Drew Pearson column today is written his associate, Jack Anderson.)

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON—One after the other, 64 members of the House of Representatives rose to eulogize one of their fellow members. Their lofty language sounded like a funeral service. Not even the late beloved Speaker Sam Rayburn received so many tributes after his death.

The object of their praise, however, was not dead. He was only afraid of political death. He sat on the House floor listening to the tributes, apparently keeping score on how many of the congressmen he had asked to pay him tribute did so. Almost to a man they came through.

Object of the encomiums was Rep. Mike Kirwan, the Youngstown, Ohio, Democrat, and the incident illustrated how difficult it is to defeat an entrenched and encrusted congressman, no matter what he does.

For the first time in over twenty years Mike Kirwan, a Democrat, has had Democratic opposition in his Democratic district. A hard-hitting, popular county councilman, Robert E. Hagan, with 14 children, has scared the political daylight out of Mike.

So suddenly 64 congressmen, out of the clear blue, made flowery speeches, endorsing Kirwan. When the late Franklin Roosevelt got into Democratic primaries he was bitterly criticized by some of these same congressmen. President Johnson only last week refused to intervene in the Democratic Maryland primary. Yet 64 congressmen ignored this time-honored rule.

The Hidden Story

What they didn't say, when they made their flowery tributes, was that most of them had pork barrel projects before Kirwan's appropriations sub-committee and he held the veto over their pork. They also didn't mention that Kirwan, as chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee, holds the purse-strings on campaign contributions for their re-election.

One of the first on his feet was Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okl., who unwittingly gave away his motive for singing Kirwan's praises.

"He (Kirwan) has had an important influence upon countless reclamation and public works projects funded during the last two decades," declared Albert. "These have run the gamut from power and flood control dams to fish hatcheries and game preserves. Name a project, and you can be sure that Mike Kirwan had a hand in its development."

Albert neglected to add that he hopes to get $3,500,000 out of Kirwan this year as down payment on his pet $13,300,000 Arbuckle reclamation project in Oklahoma.

Indeed, the loudest praise seemed to come from those who sought the most money from Kirwan to spend on vote-getting projects at home.

Rep. Ed Boland, D-Mass., called him "understanding, compassionate, kind and sympathetic." But most of all, Boland hoped Kirwan will be generous in providing federal funds to complete the $16,000,000 Cape Cod national seashore.

"Mike Kirwan is made of the stuff that built America," cried Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore. But the "stuff" Ullman really has in mind is $6,168,000 to complete the Mason Dam a few miles up the Powder River from his home town of Baker, Ore.

Rep. Seymour Halpern, R-N.Y., described Kirwan as "humble, forthright, honest, good, understanding, and a fine gentleman." This string of epithets ought to be good for the money Halpern wants from Kirwan to establish Bowne House in Flushing, N.Y., as a national religious shrine.

Rep. Herbert Bonner, D-N.C., told how he once had to arrange a special helicopter to fly Kirwan to mass from a fishing trip. This impressed Bonner with Mike's "love, faith, and belief in the Christian way of life."

Bonner didn't mention that Kirwan had helped him get $500,000 out of the U.S. Treasury to build a bridge across Oregon Inlet at Cape Hatteras, N.C., another $259,000 to establish Ft. Raleigh as a national historical site.

Rep. John McFall, D-Calif., praised Kirwan as "a real builder of America." He might have added that he has a particular part of America in mind that he would like Mike to help build: the $244,637,000 Auburn-Folsom Dam in California's Central Valley.

"Mike Kirwan does not have any enemies; he does not know any enemies," bubbled Rep. Charles Bennett, D-Fla. "He is a man of character, a man of perseverance, a man of vision."

At least Bennett hopes Mike has the vision to provide funds to help Florida develop its outdoor resources.

Rep. Robert Sikes, D-Fla., who got $100,000 from Mike to establish the Fort St. Marcos national historical site, hastily agreed he was "a great man and a great American."

"I doubt there is a man on either side of the aisle who does not love Mike Kirwan," cooed Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., who expects the lovable Mike to put up the money to build a national cemetery in southern Louisiana.

"Anyone," echoed Rep. Melvin Laird, R-Wis., "who makes the statement that Mike Kirwan is a mean man knows not of what he speaks."

How could anyone be mean who holds the purse strings to the $660,000 Laird wants for sanitation facilities at the Menominee Indian reservation?

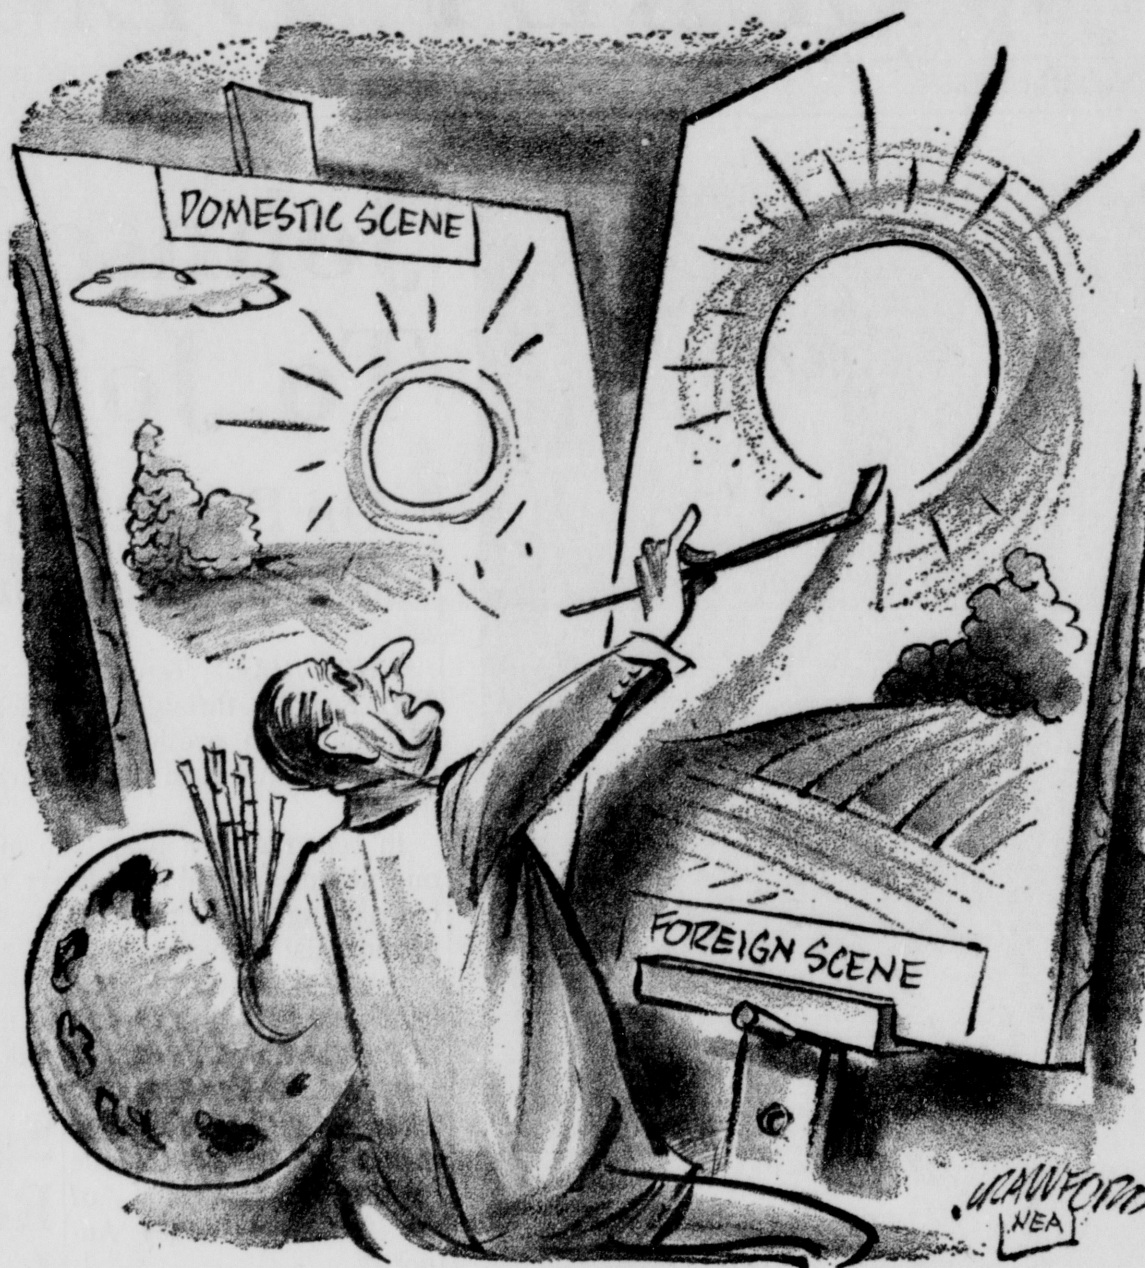

Added Freshman Rep. Robert Duncan, D-Ore., in awe: "I told a friend in Oregon that I was beginning to feel that I was finally gaining a little status in the Congress because Mike Kirwan had nodded to me twice in one week."

What Duncan wants is Kirwan's nod of approval for the Oregon Dunes national seashore and the Merlin project in the Rogue River Basin.

But perhaps the sentiment was best summed up by Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich., who would like Kirwan to grant money for a national cemetery at Ft. Custer, Mich.

"In this century," she said solemnly, "the 19th District of Ohio will never again be represented by a man who has reached the power . . . (as has) Mike Kirwan of Ohio."

Castro Problem Still Baffling

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration, as the Kennedy administration was, has been baffled about how to get Fidel Castro's communism out of Cuba. There has been no visible progress. Castro is still there, still boss.

Now a special group of Republicans—headed by Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, brother of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in whose time Castro came to power—has proposed solutions.

But they have their own built-in bafflement. They raise about as many questions as answers. And on some key questions they don't even attempt answers.

Cuba, no direct threat to this country, is an embarrassment as a Communist foothold on this side of the Atlantic. And it is a menace to the rest of the hemisphere as an agitation point and training ground for Latin-American Reds.

President Kennedy's attempt to scuttle Castro—backing a Cuban-exile invasion but without direct American involvement—was a disaster. He was ready to use direct action only when Cuba did become a direct threat.

That was when Soviet Premier Khrushchev put his missiles there. Kennedy backed him down. But Khrushchev's ties with Castro remained. Any direct military action against Castro now might mean war with Russia.

Even if Russia didn't intervene, a direct attack by the American giant on the Cuban midget — while talking peaceful solutions elsewhere — wouldn't make the United States look good anywhere.

So Johnson's main hope—as Kennedy's was—has been an economic boycott to shut off all trade with Castro. But the Allies trade with him, noting this country wants to boycott trade with communism in Cuba while selling wheat to communism in Russia.

The Republican group—called the Republican Citizens Committee's Critical Issues Council came up with this:

"It must be clearly understood by the world the United States is prepared, as a last resort, to use military force to remove international communism from Cuba, just as it has long been prepared to use military force in Korea, Berlin, Lebanon, the Formosa Straits, and elsewhere."

These were poor examples. The United States was never prepared to use military force in those places except to stop attacks, invasions or takeovers. And Cuba isn't threatening to invade or take over anybody.

Then is the Republican council proposing to go beyond defense and into a direct attack on Cuba, in which case it would be an aggressor? No. It said: "We are not advocating hasty and improper military action against Cuba."

What would "improper military action" be, an invasion? The council doesn't say. It hopefully suggests that just letting it be known the United States is willing to use force is "probably the greatest assurance that it won't be needed." So another question is raised but not answered:

If Castro doesn't attack anyone and the United States isn't willing to attack him first, how is the American military force going to mean anything?

The council has other suggestions:

1. Invoke sanctions against allies who sell anything to Castro. But this might hurt American alliances. Therefore, another question: Which is more important to the United States, getting rid of Castro or keeping alliances?

2. The Johnson administration prevents Cuban exiles from using American bases for raids on Cuba. The council seems to suggest this is all right but that the exiles should be encouraged to use other countries' bases.

3. The United States should help form a Cuban government-in-exile, and support it. This would take some doing, since the exiles are widely divided in their thinking.

But, the council says, such a government should equip an army. It couldn't do so without American help or get to Cuba without American transportation. And such an army would be worthless unless it go to Cuba to invade.

But suppose Castro beat the brains out of the invaders. Would the United States then step in to save them by direct intervention or would it hang back as it did in the Bay of Pigs. And what would Russia be doing all this time?

The Mature Parent

Must She Impress Mom?

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: My 14-year-old daughter baby sits for a couple in our apartment building at least two nights a week. On these nights she not only washes the woman's supper dishes but rinses out dish towels and mops her kitchen floor. I found this out today from the woman herself who complimented me on the child's "efficiency." I feel like such a fool. For months this girl has been too "busy" with homework to even dry a supper dish for me.

Answer: Your feelings are hurt, but they shouldn't be. Your daughter has to impress this stranger with her helpfulness because she is uncertain of the stranger's interest in her. She doesn't have to impress you with it because you are Mother—and your interest in her is the most certain thing in the world.

If you want to begin to demand some regular assistance with your supper chores, by all means do so. All I'm suggesting is that making it a reproachful demand is not justified. Your daughter has not denied you her helpfulness out of disregard for you but out of trust of you. Her apparent neglect of you is her sureness of your affection for her. If you can credit this neglect with the appreciation of you, which it really represents, you will be able to ask for help with your evening chores without reproach.

As a general rule, adolescent youngsters work more eagerly and more reliably for strangers than they do for their family. Like your daughter, they will duck the chore of dish-drying for us but labor like Cinderella for the woman upstairs. They will willingly forego a meal to finish a job of painting they have undertaken to do for a neighbor but forget, postpone or stall over mailing a letter for us. And very hurtful and bewildering is their behavior so long as we insist on looking at it through the distorting lens of our own self-disparagement. Seen through this lens, the behavior can only represent their disparagement. But the moment we can put value on ourselves, its whole meaning begins to change.

We suddenly see our daughter's efforts to impress a stranger with her competence as a tribute to our training in responsibility. For in the efforts we recognize the responsible adolescent's struggle to find his respected place as a worker in the community beyond his home. We lose all sense of hurt at our daughter's apparent neglect. We realize that she has begun to labor for the world's acceptance. It is her trust of us, of our acceptance, which has freed her to reach for the new, grownup identity.

Choose Baby Sitters On Basis of Responsibility

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.,
Newspaper Enterprise Association

You should choose your baby sitter with even more care than when choosing a new car. She should:

Be willing and able to follow instructions and be truly fond of children.

Never let a stranger into the house nor entertain her friends there without your permission.

Not take advantage by raiding the refrigerator or using the telephone.

Not become so absorbed in radio or television she fails to hear the baby cry. If the baby does, she should make a quick check to rule out any serious cause.

Having chosen your sitter, see that she has all the information she may need. Show her where the telephone is and give her the phone numbers of the police and fire departments, family doctor and places where you can be reached. Show her how to change a fuse and, in winter, how to regulate the heat. She should also know where your first aid supplies are kept. Be sure she knows where all the emergency exits are.

Do not hire a sitter if the child has a cold or other contagious disease. And if the sitter has a cold, do not employ her. If you get home late you should escort the sitter to her home.

Observance of these simple rules will increase your peace of mind and will be appreciated by a sitter whose services you may want to use again.

Q — What causes a child to be born with so-called hereditary defects?

A — I assume you want to know why a child may be born with any defects. True hereditary defects are caused by some abnormality that is carried in the genes found in either the sperm or ovum. These genes predetermine such structural features as the size, shape and color of various parts of the body. Hereditary defects are accentuated if there is a close kinship between the husband and wife.

Other causes of congenital defects can be traced to certain virus diseases occurring in the first three months of pregnancy, (most notably German measles or a diet grossly lacking in certain essential nutrients — especially folic acid. This is a vitamin found in chicken liver, asparagus, broccoli, lettuce and spinach.

Certain drugs — as was so tragically shown in the case of thalidomide sleeping pills — can be a cause. And the exposure of the mother's ovaries or of the embryo to large doses of X-ray can have harmful effects.

Impact of the 'New Math'

By SUSAN LIGHT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LIGHT: I am delighted with the considered answer you gave to the parent who asked about the "new math." I am mad as the dickens that I came through the training of a memorized catechism in math. My only concern is that many teachers will be doing business at the same old stand — rote memorization. I am having my own private struggle to learn how to teach "reasoning, thinking, and organization."

May I recommend a document of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare which does the best job of explaining that I know: "Modern Mathematics and Your Child." It costs 20 cents.

The truth is 2 times 2 may be 4, but it is also 10, and this wisdom was summarized in Shakespeare's "What's in a name? A rose . . ." When our kids know that the four fingers on one hand can have several names and symbols, they will be at the threshold of our thought process. The new stuff will produce kids who can "figure" when they need to use it — instead of just knowing parlor tricks to entertain their parents and doting relatives.

The whole ball of wax will take about 20 to 30 years. I wish I could live to see it, but I do want my grandchildren to have it from the beginning.

For setting forth the long-range plans, the greatest educational document of this century is: "Goals for School Mathematics" — the Report of the Cambridge Conference on School Math. (November 1963) Houghton Mifflin, $1.

If you read it, you'll be 10 years ahead of the times. Francis Keppel, U.S. Commissioner on Education, says, "It is not only that most teachers will be completely incapable of teaching much of the mathematics set forth in the curriculum proposed here; most teachers would be hard put to comprehend it . . . Even the first grade curriculum employs notions with which the average teacher is unfamiliar."

I can honestly say I'm having that sort of trouble, but I'm working day and night to master it because I believe in a grand new world for our grandchildren. — "NEW MATH" TEACHER

Answer: Good for you! The world needs dedicated teachers who are not only abreast, but ahead, of the times. Thank you for writing.

Eye on Scholarship

Sedalian Is Junior Golf Champion

By LARRY EMBRY

The advent of warm weather has Sedalia golfers out in earnest and a slender, attractive teenager, Miss Marsha Feig, 2100 South Harrison, is no exception. Marsha is only 17, but few golfers touring fairways this spring have as much to groom their game for as this young lady.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Feig, Marsha, who hopes to land a golf scholarship from University of Missouri, will defend her title as Missouri junior girls champion and enter the state women's tourney. To top this off, she plans to play several other major tournaments besides working this summer as a private secretary at a Houston, Tex., golf course where she is assured of close tutoring by some great names in golfing.

Carding a 167 in the 36-hole tournament at the University Golf Course in Columbia last August, Marsha won the state junior girls title with a seven-stroke advantage over Sue Asher of Rolla. Miss Asher turned in a 174.

Marsha defends this title this summer, again in August, with the tournament to be played on the Jefferson City Country Club course. Girls junior play is limited to those under 18.

Marsha shoots consistently in the low 80's, but has covered the Sedalia Country Club course in 76 (last summer) and has important years of development yet to come. She drives well, plays a superior iron game and is polishing her putting.

She and her parents are happiest about her summer job offer. When she graduates from Smith-Cotton High School this spring she plans to leave for Houston to act as private secretary to Jimmy Burke at a golf club operated by Burke and Jimmy Demaret. There is sure to be lots of golf involved in the secretary position.

"The best part about it is the pros will be watching and instructing her," said her mother, Mrs. Clarabelle Feig.

Marsha returns to Missouri to play the junior tourney in August and the senior women's tournament at Joplin in June. She's already entered in a ladies invitational open tournament May 8-10 at Glen Echo Country Club in St. Louis. The tourney is for professionals and amateurs and will be her first this season.

Strong points of her game? "I consider my iron shots stronger because I can control them better. If I really score well it's generally because my iron shots have been on the pin."

"I drive around 200 to 225 yards, but on a dry day when the ball is rolling good I get 250." Wet fairways this spring have held back her drives.

In the past Marsha has been weaker with the putter than any other club.

"But I won't be anymore. I've been working hard on putting!"

Miss Feig's putter was hot last summer in the junior tournament when she dropped putts of

TABLE FULL OF TROPHIES—Marsha Feig's golf and bowling trophies number over 35 and fill a table. She is most proud of the tallest one, the cup for the Missouri junior girls championship. In bowling Marsha won the bantam junior singles state crown in 1958. She hopes for a golf scholarship to the University of Missouri.

MARSHA FEIG: "If I really score well it's generally because my iron shots have been on the pin."

25, 27 and 20 feet on the last three holes for a birdie and two pars to win going away.

"I was always frustrated on the back nine in the state tournament because I thought it was so much harder. But as it turned out I shot better on the back than the front nine," Marsha said.

Regular golf partner for Marsha is her 15-year-old brother, Terry, who is also developing an interest in tournament golf. He is a sophomore at Smith-Cotton.

The Feig children take to the golf links almost naturally. "I played when the kids were little and rather than leave them home I took them along," their mother confided.

Marsha and Terry soon had clubs in their own hands and Marsha played her first tournament—a special event for youngsters—at the Country Club when she was 9, but she claims she really didn't play seriously until 11. At any rate, that's starting early.

Next goal for Marsha is the state women's tournament and she's already played in the senior event two years.

"You almost have to be down in the 70's to win it," she says. "But score is really not so important. The tournament is match play and you can get a break if your early competition is not too good."

Golf, however, is not Marsha's only sport or school activity. She excels in bowling and was bantam state singles champ in 1958, bowled in leagues up to her senior year and counts a full table of golf and bowling trophies.

She was forward on a winning girls intramural basketball team this year at S-C, plays volleyball and softball, is in the Latin Club, Girls Athletic Association and Spiz Club.

If she gets the golf scholarship to MU, she is considering a major in physical education and a minor in history.

New Device Thrilling To Infantrymen

By CHARLES BLACK
The Columbus Enquirer

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP)—The U.S. Army has come up with a successful device destined to gladden the heart of every infantryman—an instant foxhole.

To dig a proper foxhole in the past, a soldier needed a pick, shovel, stamina and sometimes a prayer. And there were reports that some GIs and Marines in a hurry dug sufficient holes with their bare hands.

A team from the U.S. Combat Development Command's infantry agency put the new development on display Wednesday at Ft. Benning.

The result may make it possible for a soldier to pick up a one-pound foxhole digger from the supply sergeant and take a rest while the things digs a hole for him.

What's more, says the Army, the hole can be dug in the hardest, rockiest ground.

The foxhole digger comes in two parts—the first part for blasting a small hole two inches in diameter and several inches deep. This is known as a pilot hole.

The second part of the device is placed in the pilot hole, a primer is set, and the soldier gets out of the way for about 30 seconds while a cratering explosion digs the foxhole.

The instant foxhole was developed at the Engineer Research and Development Laboratory, Ft. Belvoir, Va.

The demonstration showed the device works best in hard, rocky, clay-type soil or frozen ground. This is because dirt blasted from soft, loam-type soil tends to cave in along the sides and the soldier has to pitch it out with a shovel.

Although the device still is in the experimental stage, it is expected to be tested in the field by troops beginning in October.

THEY STARTED EARLY—Marsha and Terry Feig took up the game of golf early after covering the links with their mother when they were youngsters. Marsha, a senior at Smith-

Cotton, has been active in tournament golf several years and Terry, a sophomore, also is developing an interest.

BROTHER PLAYING PARTNER—Fifteen-year-old brother, Terry, holds the pin as Marsha's putt rolls toward the cup on the No. 1 hole of Country Club course. Marsha is junior girls champion of Missouri and defends her title in August at Jefferson City. She has landed a promising summer position at a Houston Tex. golf club operated by top golf pros

ON THE PUTTING GREEN—The putter has perhaps been Marsha Feig's weakest club, but she vows it won't be this season and has been practicing hard. She was busy on the Country Club's putting green on a recent Saturday morning when this photograph was made.

Poverty Plagues Southern Negroes

By SID MOODY

POINTE A LA HACHE, La. (AP)—Leander Perez, the millionaire segregationist, swampland Caesar who dwells as deep in the Deep South as you can go without falling into the Gulf of Mexico, thumped a plump fist on his desk.

"Tell me, what is the greatest problem facing the Negroes of the world today?"

The mind hunted for a safe, noncommittal response. "Poverty? Lack of education?"

"Young man," his voice rose and his eyes squinted coldly behind his silver-rimmed glasses. "You show you not only lack powers of observation but you display crass ignorance! You know damn well it's nothing more than the Communist conspiracy to stir up racist hate!"

The words were spat out like an oath. Then Perez walked over and playfully tousled his visitor's hair.

That's Leander. A man whose anger has taken him into battle with his state, his nation and its navy, great corporations, his church. A man who freely expresses his contempt, even hatred, for those who press for civil rights for Negroes. And an engaging man with a ready laugh, a genial guide through the bayou lands where he reigns as all but absolute king.

Leander Perez is also a man:

—Who has told the U.S. Navy and the archbishop of the New Orleans Catholic archdiocese to go to hell in just those words.

—Who has become worth millions while earning an official salary that never reached much beyond $6,500 a year.

—Who calls civil rights demonstrations "anarchy backed up by the U.S. attorney general" and who says he'll handcuff Bobby Kennedy and James Farmer, head of CORE, if they ever enter his territory together.

—Who charges President Johnson is "trying to buy an election with a fake WPA" through his war on poverty program.

—Who thinks Walter Reuther and David Dubinsky controlled the 1960 presidential election and will repeat in 1964 and who thinks Zionist Jews "are the most dangerous people in this country today."

—Who headed the Dixiecrat forces in the 1948 presidential elections, who was a power alongside the late Huey Long and has remained a power in Louisiana although his parish has a population of only 24,000, and who says of his rivals, "They're in politics, I'm in government."

—Who says there are only two kinds of Negroes: "Bad ones are niggers and good ones are darkies."

Forty years ago Perez' parish, Plaquemines, was hardly a place of which dreams—or kingdoms—are made. It was—and is—mostly swamp, populated by more water moccasins, muskrats and mosquitoes than people.

It stretches along the Mississippi below New Orleans following the great river to the Gulf. The pirate Jean Lafitte hid out in the bayous of Plaquemines which over the centuries have become the home of a mixture of Slavs, French, Spanish, English and Irish. There are about 6,000 Negroes. The Parish is connected to the outside by only two roads and in this isolation a proud, violence-prone, independent culture has developed.

It might have remained a geographical curiosity had it not been for a triple discovery—Leander Perez, sulphur and oil. Perez was found first.

Son of a small planter, a graduate of Tulane and a struggling attorney, he seized his opportunity in 1919 at the age of 28 when the judge of Plaquemines died. The governor had appointed a successor, who barricaded the courthouse. But Perez, who had his own faction, had himself sworn in as judge on the lawn outside and went on to win a legal battle and was seated as the proper office holder.

In 1924, he became district attorney, which meant he was overseer of every piece of county machinery, from the Election Board to the county council—called the Police Jury in Louisiana. That was in the traditional path to power but Perez also did something that was not. He managed to have passed in the state legislature a constitutional amendment concerning levee boards.

Leave boards were responsible for building and maintaining the dikes that held back the Mississippi. To help defray their expenses the state allowed them to sell or lease certain lands. Perez' amendment stipulated that if a levee board was entirely within the borders of a parish—and Plaquemines' was—those revenues would be the responsibility of the Police Jury not the Levee Board.

When they struck a sunken sea of oil on those levee board lands, Perez and his parish were swept along on a gusher of prosperity. In 1923, Perez had borrowed $1,000 from his mother-in-law to buy a $6,400 home. Fifteen years later he told a friend he'd made his first million.

The voting history of Plaquemines at those times is almost as spectacular. In 1844 a steamboat had carried voters from New Orleans downriver to Plaquemines to produce a count larger than the male population, according to New Orleans newspaper accounts. Ninety years later they had eliminated the steamboat. In 1930 with 2,454 registered voters neighboring St. Bernard's Parish, where Perez was also the power, cast 3,979 votes for Huey Long. His opponent got nine.

Once, after five parish election commissioners had been convicted of vote fraud, Perez calmly explained: "Some of these Plaquemines folks didn't have any way of getting to the polls, so they used to ask their friends to cast votes for them. That's all that happened."

Meanwhile Perez, universally known as "Judge" because of his first public job, extended his power from behind Plaquemines. Never a state official, he nonetheless had an almost perfect attendance record at the state legislature. He was behind the effort that saved Huey Long from impeachment as governor. St. Bernard's provided the razor-thin margin that made Huey's son, Russell, a U.S. senator years later. How did such a small tail as Plaquemines wag such a large dog as Louisiana?

"Brains," says Hermann Deutsch, columnist for the New Orleans States-Item and a veteran recorder of Louisiana politics. As the Judge himself said when asked who was behind a particularly clever maneuver in his parish: "Who the hell else has any ideas in Plaquemines?"

If it weren't for the mosquitoes and chiggers, Plaquemines would be a pleasant place to live. Perez' rule provides free ferries across the river, free boat yards for the parish fishermen, a tax rate of about $8 a year on an $11,000 home.

"We levy taxes just to keep people interested in government," says the Judge.

He has been at war with the Navy over its base at Belle Chasse. Just last year, to keep Negro servicemen out of the parish and their children out of its schools, he declared Plaquemines off limits to naval personnel.

"We say the hell with you, the U.S. government," the Judge told Rear Adm. Charles Layman, district commandant. The Pentagon, he said, was "discouraging Negro servicemen from seeking the company of their own race and encouraging them to push themselves on white girls. And you know what would happen if Negroes pursued white girls in Plaquemines Parish."

To Perez, a brilliant constitutional lawyer, the Constitution provides not equality but equal rights. "Are you and I equal?" he said the other day. "I'd make a hell of a correspondent and you'd make a hell of an administrator of the public's business."

His adamant stand has caused him to be excommunicated by his archdiocese.

"I had trouble with my archbishop," said Perez, born a Catholic. "I said, 'If you think you can send me to hell, I'll ask you to go to hell.'"

"Then a group of my friends organized our own church. We call it the Perez-byterians," he laughed jovially.

OBITUARIES

Claude Carpenter (Tipton)

Thomas J. (Claude) Carpenter, 64, Tipton, died at 11:05 a.m. Wednesday at the Veterans Hospital in Kansas City where he had been hospitalized 10 days. He had been in ill health for a number of months.

Born in Tipton, Dec. 15, 1899, he was a son of the late Thomas P. and Maude Bohannon Carpenter. He was never married. He was a general laborer, a World War II veteran and a member of the Fortuna Baptist Church.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Wayne (Mamie) White, Stockton, Calif.; two brothers, Elbert Carpenter, San Francisco, Calif.; Fern Carpenter, of the home; a niece and a nephew. Two brothers, Dee and Perry Carpenter, preceded him in death.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Conn Funeral Home in Tipton with the Rev. J. D. Cooper, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating. Music will be by Mrs. Stanley Palmer.

Pallbearers will be Dr. H. P. Stonner, Nelson Stonner, Merlyn Springer, Dorsey Knorp, Charles Fry and Toby Lademann.

Honorary pallbearers: O. J. Stratman, O. W. Kline, J. A. Conn, Frank J. Gerbes, Virgil Carter, Benny Hainen, Harold Albin, Orville Arnold, Vincent Hecht and E. N. Pizer.

Burial will be in the Tipton Masonic Cemetery with graveside rites by American Legion Post No. 304. The body is at the Conn Funeral Home.

Mrs. Mary Mefford (Upland, Calif.)

Mrs. Mary Annette Mefford, 102, formerly of Windsor, died at 8:10 p.m. Tuesday at a hospital in Upland, Calif.

She was born at Boonville, Mo., Oct. 5, 1861, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Baird. After her marriage to James E. Mefford in 1889 they moved to a farm in Camden County, Mo., until moving to Windsor in 1930. Her husband died in 1938. In 1943 she moved to the state of California where two of her daughters resided.

She is survived by one son, Ed Mefford, Windsor; three daughters, Mrs. Arthur Patterson, Bozeman, Mont.; Mrs. Ralph Collier and Mrs. Richard Vaughn, both of Upland, California; 15 grandchildren and 45 great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be Saturday at 2:30 p.m. at the Huston Funeral Home in Windsor with the Rev. Richard Lamborn, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church officiating.

Burial will be in Laurel Oak Cemetery, Windsor.

The withholding rate is designed to take only approximately the amount of tax owed out of a taxpayer's weekly or monthly salary and it would be impossible to set a rate that would make the amount withheld come out even for all taxpayers.

market, Miller indicated, and was reported to have had a boy and a girl in the 7 to 9 age category with her.

The chief said information received by police indicated two persons in a small black sports car may have seen the dog bite the girl and he asked those persons to contact police if they did.

Miller said the dog was believed to have been a cocker spaniel.

Police checked with the pharmacy in an effort to identify the woman, but that proved fruitless. Miller asked anyone with information concerning the dog bite incident to contact police.

New Negro Motel Damaged by Blast

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A Negro motel, still under construction, was heavily damaged by an explosion, Sheriff Fred Pickett said Wednesday night.

Residents of North Jackson had reported an explosion Tuesday night but sheriff's deputies had been unable to find the blast scene.

have to keep it cleaned up." The board agreed not to employ the additional man at this time, but to make sure the park is cleaned up daily, using men on duty at the pump station.

It was brought out at the meeting that Well No. 13, the new well on the Community Center Road, had been under full test for about one month, and that 43-million gallons of water had been used, with little drop in the well's water level. The other 15-million gallons used during the past month came from other sources.

The board accepted the bid of Fischer's Concrete Service, of $1,900, for the installation of concrete steps leading to the catwalk over the spillway at Spring Fork Lake.

The board accepted the low bid of $44,000 submitted by the Minnesota Tank Manufacturing Co. for the construction of a 1-million-gallon water storage tank at the pump station. The estimate on this work made by the engineering firm of Black & Veatch had been $64,000.

The board accepted the recommendations of the Highway Department and Black & Veatch on the contract for installation of water mains on the East Broadway Urban Plan improvement, and awarded the contract to the B&V Co., of Topeka, Kan. This low bid had been under study for several weeks.

It was noted that sign-ups for moving water services on the East Broadway Urban Plan project are coming along nicely, with about two-thirds of the property owners affected already signed up. It was noted in the discussion that the property owner must sign the request for moving the service, otherwise the service will be cut off when the present main is abandoned under the new pavement.

The matter of weeds in Spring Fork Lake came up when a discussion about purchase of a tractor for the lake area came up. The tractor could have been used for cutting weeds around the lake, where the weeds abound when the lake level drops. Several methods of keeping the weeds under control were discussed, and it was finally decided to watch the growth this year, and hire someone to cut and burn the weeds if they become a nuisance. If this is not effective, the board agreed to discuss the purchase of the tractor at a later date.

After being low for two years, the lake rose to bank-full after the heavy rains a couple of weeks ago. Hundreds of tons of weeds, which had been growing along the banks for two years, came down the lake and lodged against the spillway, polluting the water and threatening to stop up the intake gates at the tower. Hundreds of man-hours were expended in forking the weed masses over the spillway.

Melvin Jones pretty well summed up the feelings of the board this way, "I don't want to spend money for a tractor if we don't have to. On the other hand we cannot have the weed situation we have had this year."

The board studied a new map of proposed improvements from the years 1965 to 1965. It was brought out that current expected revenues would take care of the costs of the proposed improvements.

The board voted to send Herb Taylor and Mrs. Taylor to the annual meeting of the American Water Works Association, to be held in Toronto, Canada, during the week of May 31, with "actual and necessary" expenses to be borne by the board. As Taylor will be absent during the time of the regular board meeting, the meeting was extended to June 10.

At the beginning of the meeting Paul Hederich, board president, read a letter of commendation he received from Mayor L. L. Studer. The letter reads: "I should like to commend the members of the Sedalia Water Board and the manager, Mr. Taylor, for the job that they have done so well, and sometimes under adverse circumstances, during the two years of my term as mayor of Sedalia."

"The manner in which they have performed their duties, and on such a busy job, will and should deserve the commendation of a grateful community."

Receives Donation

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Iraq's President Abdel Salam Aref has been handed a check for $361,500 donated by the people of Kuwait for "martyrs of the Iraqi army," Baghdad radio reported. The money is expected to go to dependents of Iraqi military men killed in three years of war against Kurdish rebels.

Hospitality

They are driving a Japanese vehicle similar to the American Army Jeep. One of them called it a Land Rover (English equivalent to Jeep), but Okada said the way it moved along he liked to think of it as a flea.

On the hood of the auto is a map of the United States with their tour route outlined and each evening they paint in a green strip alongside the black one to show how far they traveled that day. The Japanese flag is also painted on the hood.

On each side of the car is painted: "Tokyo 1964. Tokyo Olympic Messenger for Government of Tokyo." A small U.S. flag is painted on one side of the printing and the Rising Sun on the other side.

From here their tour will take them to Jefferson City, St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, Albany, New York; New York City; Washington, D. C.; Richmond, Va.; Atlanta, Ga.; New Orleans, La.; Dallas, El Paso, Phoenix, Ariz.; and back to Los Angeles. The trip—a round-robin affair—is expected to terminate around June 20.

C. W. Mathieson, president of Town & Country Shoes, invited the boys to tour the local plant Thursday morning before departing for Jefferson City inasmuch as Okada is in the shoe business. Okada was delivered the invitation from Mathieson by this reporter and the trio was related to be shown the warm hospitality and interest received in Sedalia.

Yamazaki proudly displayed a huge certificate issued him by the governor of New Mexico appointing him Colonel—special aide de camp.

They spent the night here at the El Leon Motel and, although they could not recall most of the major cities they had passed through so far, they seemed convinced when they departed here Thursday morning that the town of Sedalia, Missouri would be one they would remember—because several Sedalians who saw the "flea" parked at the motel stopped and talked with the group and they were invited to tour a local plant.
